WEBSTER ROAD PROJECT OKAYED

Post Office to Get Funds; No Word on Service

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended an extra 41 million dollars to tide the Post Office Department over between now and July 1.

This was six million dollars short of the amount demanded by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield as the sum needed to head off a sharp curtailment in mail service effective at midnight tonight.

There was no immediate word from the Post Office Department whether the postal service cut still will go into effect.

Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.) said the 41 million dollar figure was agreed on by a 37-10 vote.

Summerfield had said that the postal service curtailment—including an end to almost all weekend service—would go into effect and stay in effect until Congress votes extra funds.

The 41 million dollar supplemental fund now goes to the House for its certain approval Monday. The Senate is expected to take up the issue the following day.

In approving the sum the committee at a closed session, rejected a 17-million dollars allowance recommended last week by a subcommittee and also turned down a Republican proposal to give Summerfield 43 million dollars.

Summerfield earlier ordered postoffices to close Saturday Saturday mail deliveries have been ordered cancelled.

Might Rescind Order

There remained a possibility, however, that with the assurance that extra funds are to be provided Summerfield might yet rescind the action.

He told the Senate Appropriations Committee Thursday afternoon "nothing can stop" the cuts "except money from Congress." He insisted later the emergency appropriation must be signed by President Eisenhower—not merely approved by a congressional committee—before the cuts could be cancelled.

The House Appropriations Committee called a closed door meeting this morning to consider Summerfield's emergency request for 47 million dollars. But the House was in recess until Monday when it planned to act on a general supplementary appropriations bill.

Cuts Appear Inevitable

That appeared to make the postal cuts certain to go into effect at least for a few days.

But L. Rohe Walter, Summerfield's special assistant for public relations, said early today that "something still might be worked out."

Walter said it was "conceivable" that a strong request from the Appropriations Committee coupled with approval of emergency funds would enable Summerfield to rescind orders for the cuts.

"There is no desire on the part of the Post Office Department to cause undue hardship or disrupt the mail service," Walter said.

But he said the committee would cancel the cut order within "the legal requirements."

Summerfield said he was ready to cancel all or part of the cuts depending on how much of the 47 million dollars Congress appropriates.

Cemetery Hill Project Again Is Under Study

Monongahela city officials were informed today the State Department of Highways has resurrected plans for the improvement of the Cemetery Hill road which carries Route 88 into the city.

In 1951, the Department of Highways prepared a plan for eliminating the dangerous, down-hill curve which has claimed many lives in traffic accidents.

At that time, the Highway Department estimated that property damages for the improvement project would amount to $200,000. It was suggested that the state pay 40 per cent, the county 40 per cent and the city 20 per cent.

In all the city's share in the project, including building costs, came to an estimated $75,000.

Due to the financial condition of the city, it was necessary to call for a referendum on a bond issue. The voters defeated the proposal and the project was scrapped.

Now the Highway Department has informed city authorities a new plan may be devised in which the highway will be made part of a "limited access" system.

The county and city's share of the project cost will be determined later, the Highway Department reported.

Channel 4 to Go to WCAE

WASHINGTON (UP) — Federal Communications Commission Examiner Elizabeth C. Smith has reversed her previous decision and recommended the awarding of television Channel 4 in Wilkinsburg, Pa. to WCAE, Inc.

The recommendation is subject to FCC approval.

The examiner previously had recommended the award to Television City, Inc., McKeesport, headed by Irvin D. Wolf. But the examiner said that with the death of Wolf, Television City "suffered a great loss in leadership, and especially guidance in civic service."

She concluded that the application of the firm required a review "on the basis of present composition."

Brothers Held As Burglary Suspects

Two brothers, one 15 and the other 16, of Monongahela, were arrested on burglary charges by Monongahela police yesterday, it was reported.

The boys were apprehended following a burglary at the home of Ruth E. Nuss, of 449 Third St., Monongahela.

They reportedly took a man's diamond ring, cuff links, miniature cedar chest and about $13 in cash.

They have been released into the custody of their parents pending a hearing in Washington County Juvenile Court.

Donora Man's Car Shears Utility Pole

Radabaugh was traveling towards Route 906 about 3:15 a. m. when the accident occurred. He was alone, it was said.

The car was demolished.

Leader, Lawler Give Approval to Local Officials

Gov. George M. Leader and Secretary of Highways Joseph J. Lawler yesterday set into action a plan which, when carred out, will eliminate the hazardous conditions existing on the Monessen-Webster road, Route 906.

The two officials gave the go-ahead signal for this long-awaited action at a meeting in Harrisburg with a delegation of Monessen City and Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday afternoon.

The Governor instructed Lawler to begin work on the proposed project immediately. Shortly after the meeting, Lawler called Norbert G. Bell, district engineer at Uniontown, and he, in turn, assigned the design of the project to the Westmoreland Engineering Company, of Monessen.

Gerald Vitale, former city engineer, who is now associated with the local company and who was among the Chamber representatives yesterday, said today he will begin work on the project Monday. He was unable to state at this time when the design would be completed.

Heard of Plans

At yesterday's meeting, which was arranged by Mayor Hugo J. Parente, Governor Leader said he has been aware of the progressive spirit of Monessen and "for that reason the state is always willing to help those communities who are willing to help themselves."

He said he has heard much about the City's master plan and complimented the delegation for the "fine manner in wach you presented your request this afternoon."

"Some communities," he said, "arrange meetings for various projects but fail to present a detailed program of what they desire. The program and plans you gentlemen showed me today show that you are going about the redevelopment of your city in an excellent manner."

The Governor made his decision to favor the project after hearing about and seeing pictures of the perilous condition of the road, whose record is stained with traffic deaths, serious injuries in accidents and innumerable slides.

'Slope off Hillsides'

Vitale told the gathering that he believes the best solution for eliminating the threats of falling rocks and dirt would be to "slope off the hillside."

"If we can do this, we could slope it off in such a way as to provide two 'benches' to catch any cascade of rock or dirt before it could reach the highway," he said.

He said a previous survey made on the possibility of re-locating the road over the hill on the east side of the present road revealed that the cost would be prohibitive.

Today Vitale said he will arrange a meeting with City officials to "talk over" the plans. After Vitale's plans are completed, they will be sent to the state for approval.

Attending the meeting along with Mayor Parente yesterday were Councilmen David Victoria, John Kotch Jr., and David Canova; City Engineer John Kotch, III, and Chamber members Dr. Ralph M. Cherkin, Milton Rosenson, Robert McKelvie, George Cieply and Vitale. State Sen. John H. Dent of Jeannette, also was present.

Soviet Threat To Iceland If U. S. Troops Stay

LONDON (UP)— Soviet Russia told Iceland today to eject American troops or face a "crushing blow" in any East-West war.

It was the latest and potentially most dangerous in a series of blistering threats by the Soviet Union against America's NATO Allies.

A year ago local Communists in Iceland almost succeeded in forcing withdrawal of the American airmen and ground troops who maintain American installations in Iceland, site of NATO's northernmost Atlantic bases.

Moscow Radio began the new attack today by broadcasting a newspaper warning that Russia "will be compelled to strike a crushing blow at the aggressors, wherever they are."

Then it added Iceland to the list of nations already given nuclear warnings within the past ten days—Denmark, Greece, Norway, West Germany, Turkey, The Netherlands and Britain. There also were warnings to Moslem nations having American bases.

The Soviet defense ministry Daily Krashaya Zvezda, quoted by a Moscow Radio broacast heard here, said "The withdrawal of the American troops from Iceland is the only way to ensure her security."

King Hussein For Compromise To End Crisis

By UNITED PRESS

King Hussein moved today for a compromise end to Jordan's political crisis, but events there and the deepening dispute over the Gulf of Aqaba increased world anxiety for peace in the Middle East.

Hussein asked Abdul Halim Nimr to try to form a cabinet. Nimr was defense and interior minister in the cabinet of ousted Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, but is considered more conservative than the left-wing Nabulsi.

The King's first choice for premier, Hussein El-Khalidi, failed, and it became increasingly evident that Nabulsi still commanded a big following among those who consider him the chief symbol of Jordan's newly-forged ties with Egypt.

More Indictments Handed by Grand Jury in 'Pike Probe'

HARRISBURG (UP) — A Dauphin county special grand jury investigating virtually all phases of Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission activity recommended today the indictment of 26 persons including two suspended commissioners and a former chairman.

Among those cited were former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale Republican, and two commissioners suspended by Gov. George M. Leader—Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh, and Commissioner James F. Torrance, Export.

McSorley and Torrance are already under indictment as a result of earlier recommendations handed down by the same special grand jury.

The special panel recommended indictments in six separate categories, including criminal conspiracy, malfeasance, misfeasance and non-feasance in office, cheating by fraudulent pretense, bribery, and perjury.

Vincent G. Panati, special deputy attorney general, said that Evans was cited in five separate charges of conspiracy; Torrance in two, and McSorley on one charge of "cheating by fraudulent pretense" and another on criminal conspiracy.

A total of 25 persons were cited on five different types of criminal conspiracy charges. Two—Evans and Torrance—for malfeasance in office; six for cheating by fraudulent pretense, four for bribery and two for perjury.

The charges involved alleged profiting through irregularities in contract letting, expenses, insurance, automobile purchases and "free work."

Evans was named in every one of those charges; Torrance in three and McSorley in one.

Others recommended for indictment were:

James F. Gallagher, Bedford, former superintendent of operational equipment for the commission.

Kenneth Thomas, Bedford, partner in Thomas Motors, Bedford.

Frederick Farabaugh, Bedford, also of Thomas Motors.

William H. Cooper, Harrisburg, superintendent of the turnpike "executive fleet" of vehicles.

Warren A. King, Bedford, former turnpike construction equipment superintendent.

William J. Roberts, Guardville.

Take Steps to Avert Railroad Strike at Mills

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Leverett Edwards of the National Mediation Board took a hand today in negotiations to avert a strike against the Union Railroad, subsidiary of the U.S. Steel Corp.

The railroad's 1,400 clerks and maintenance employes are set to strike at 7 a.m. Monday to enforce demands for the same type of wage and pension agreement won by the United Steelworkers in the steel industry last year. The clerks and maintenance workers are members of the USW.

A strike would idle 30,000 workers in Monongahela Valley plants of U.S. Steel, which Thursday changed its Duquesne Works bast furnaces from ferro-manganese to pig iron in preparation for a shutdown.

Iron producing furnaces at the Duquesne, Homestead, Braddock, Irvin, West Mifflin, Edgar Thomson, Rankin and Clairton plants are to be banked Saturday night and the last hearths of open hearth furnaces tapped Sunday night.

Negotiations between the railroad which also serves other industries, and the USW began last fall.

A strike could be averted by government action under the Railway Labor Act which provides for a 60-day "cooling off" period, during which a presidential fact finding board studies the dispute and makes settlement recommendations.

Area Postmasters in Doubt About Tomorrow

Postmasters in the Monessen district are prepared to put into effect at midnight tonight the cuts ordered by Postmaster General Summerfield in a postal bulletin.

Meaning, that unless word is received to the contrary today, operations tomorrow will be similar to those of Sunday.

As of one o'clock this afternoon, Postmaster Edward Januszewski said he "hadn't received word" from the postal department whether the local post office will be open or closed tomorrow.

Postmaster Januszewski, of Monessen, and W. L. Bedsworth, of Belle Vernon, said post offices windows will be closed, there will be no local or rural deliveries of mail, and pickup service will be limited.

Collections will be limited to street boxes downtown. There will be no pickup of mail on carrier routes.

The postmasters said, however, that special delivery letters will be delivered.

Post office lobbies will be open for mail deposits and box patrons. The postmasters said incoming mail delivery crews will service boxes. The lobbies will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The cutback at the Monessen post office will result in the furlough of four substitute workers, Januszewski stated.

No regular employes will be out of jobs, it was reported.

On Monday, further curtailment is planned. Postmasters have been instructed to limit window service to not more than 8½ hours.

The Washington Township Water Authority yesterday transferred $975,000 in money and bonds for the purchase of the Fayette City Water Company and the Citizens Water Company of Roscoe, Solicitor John Costello announced today.

As of midnight last night, the Authority began taking over the operations of both companies.

The issue of bonds, principal's 5½ per cent water revenue bonds, took place at the transfer meeting held yesterday at the Roscoe office of the Western Pennsylvania National Bank.

Costello said some shorter-term bonds are for three per cent but the majority — about $750,000 — are the 5½ per cent type.

The Authority purchased the two utilities about two months ago and yesterday's transaction made the Authority the owner officially. The two companies serve approximately 2,000 customers.

Costello said no changes in personnel at either company are contemplated.

Among those present at yesterday's meeting were Authority members Joseph Buzo, chairman, and John H. Stamm, Charles Sadowski, John Wizniak and Lewis Weiss. Also present were James E. Committee Plans State Highway Program Survey

Leader Outlines Plans for Group; Praises Lawler

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader said the chairman of the state Planning Commission will name an independent committee "within a week or so" to survey the long-range building program of the Highways Department.

Leader told his Thursday news conference the committee will be primarily a "planning" body to look into the state's future needs.

He replied "I don't know" when queried on the possibility the committee would look into the operation of the department now under fire by Republicans.

The Republican controlled General Assembly has two bills affecting the department and Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler. House originated legislation would create a 10-member investigative committee to check the department for evidence of mismanagement.

The bill has stalled in the Senate where Republican members apparently favor their own legislation to place operation of the department under a three member commission.

The governor vigorously defended Lawler against the charges, repeating the department was operated in the "best possible manner."

Praises Lawler

"Secretary Lawler has worked hard, above and beyond the call of duty to make the department operate in the best possible manner," he said. "Let me repeat, it is a rapidly expanding department, but we are making progress."

Leader declined to comment on what action he would take if either of the GOP highway "ripper" bills reached his desk, commenting "I've not studied them thoroughly."

The governor said John Robin, planning board chairman, was in the process of forming the special planning committee to be composed of distinguished citizens. He indicated the committee would be concerned with planning, safety and the needs of individual communities.

The governor directed a sharp jab at previous Republican administrations, with the comment "The real tragedy is that we have had no real long-range planning in recent years to make the best possible use of all road funds available."

Leader also said he would not "stand in the way" of legislation calling for a referendum on parimutuel horse race betting in the state although he personally opposes it. He said the people should be allowed to express their views, but added he didn't think the Senate bill would emerge from the Assembly. Leader, who took the same stand in 1956, cited similar legislation in past assemblies which all died enroute to the governor's desk.

County Planning Body Duties Are Outlined

Members of the recently formed Westmoreland County Planning Commission have pretty generally agreed that their function will be largely one "of encouragement, promotion and coordination of existing planning commissions."

The nine-member board came to that conclusion during a three-hour meeting this week in Greensburg called to discuss the Commission's authority, limitations and plans.

Commission President Avra N. Pershing, Jr., of Greensburg, spelled out the duties of the group by reading a memo from the County Commissioners.

In effect, the planning group was told their only mandatory responsibility is the establishment of rules of procedure for processing application of sub-divisions, plans and plots of land except for those municipalities already having ordinances governing new developments.

Along that line, the Commission agreed to make the recording of sub-division plots identical with the procedure now used by Recorder of Deeds Jesse S. McCormick.

The Commission also decided to ask District State Highway Engineer Norbert G. Bell for his support in designating relocated Route 119 between the New Stanton Interchange and Connellsville as a limited access road.

The Planning Commissioners spent a great deal of time discussing a request from the Central Westmoreland Region Planning Commission for $5,000. This request was tabled pending a further investigation.

A poll of county communities was authorized to determine just which cities, boroughs and townships will be exempt from final commission approval.

It was also agreed to take necessary steps to prepare by-laws. Commission secretary Robert P. DeLotto, E. C. Good, of Arnold and Joseph Bucci, of Vandergrift were appointed to draft the by-laws.

Others attending the meeting were Donald Duvall, of Monessen; Albert Chenet, of Latrobe; Paul Euwer, of Jeannette and Ben Hebrank, of Greensburg.

Fuel Bills on Farm are Cut By Windbreaks

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP) — A University of Illinois forestry specialist says good windbreaks can cut farm fuel bills by 20 to 30 per cent.

"What's ommre," said University of Illinois assistant extension forester Harold Scholten, "cattle protected by windbreaks gained 30 per cent more than unprotected cattle on the same ration during recent tests."

The tests on cattle were conducted in Montana and South Da-taoi ed in Montana. The fuel tests were staged in Montana and South Dakota.

"Balled and burlaped trees give best results in starting windbreaks," Scholten said. "Norway spruce and Douglas fir varieties are best for the Illinois area."

Scholten emphasized the importance of using a good mulch around the trees to hold soil moisture and keep down weeds.

Ownership of Delaware Area All Mixed Up

MISPILLION LIGHT, Del. (UP) —The routine sale of a piece of public land has revealed that practically all of this southern Delaware fishing community is owned by the state although property owners have been paying taxes to the county for years.

The case began when the Highway Department put up for sale a parcel of land along Cedar Creek. Although the land is muddy, C. V. Wilkerson, of Milford, paid $4,000 for it.

Then it developed that Tom Robinson, a negro fisherman, used the land as a fishing boat harbor and had erected a small house on it. He paid county taxes and believed he owned the land.

Although Wilkerson said that if anyone depossessed Robinson it would have to be the Highway Department, protests from other Mispillion Light settlers caused an investigation. And officials came up with the news that 17 parcels of land, consuting almost the entire settlement, are stae property and the people who live on them are squatters.

The state is trying to figure a way out of the dilema.

As sort of postscript, it was discovered during the investigation that one man, J. Simpson Stille, has been paying county taxes for improvements since 1949 —but the Highway Department can't discover where his improvements are or, for that matter, where J. Simpson is.

The United States government is spending about two billion dollars a year on scientific research. About 85 per cent of this science budget is being spent annually for military purposes.

Today in Congress—

GOP Tax Cut Bill Offered

WASHINGTON (UP)— A high-ranking Republican today jumped the gun on would-be congressional tax cutters by offering his own bill to cut taxes five billion dollars.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson, third-ranking Republican on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, introduced a bill Thursday to lower both individual and corporation taxes as of Jan. 1.

The bill was put forward at a time when belief was growing in Congress that the Democrats were playing a waiting game before introducing their own tax reduction bill later this year.

Simpson said his bill would "force the spenders in government" to economize His measure would increase to $650 from $600 the amount of tax-exempt income allowed a taxpayer for himself and each dependent

It also would make an across-the-board reduction of 5 per cent in income tax rates on individuals and corporations. The maximum tax on capital gains would be cut in half — from 25 per cent to 12½ per cent.

Other congressional news.

Norman: The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee said it has not agreed — nor been asked—to let the State Department censor testimony about foreign officials. Subcommittee counsel Robert Morris said there is "no change in subcommittee policy or procedure" as a result of the furor over the suicide of E Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, whom the subcommittee accused of Communism

Lands: The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to put a halt to military "grabbing" of public lands. Rep Clair Engle (D-Calif.), sponsor of the bill, said the practice has reached staggering proportions The measure would require the services to get prior congressional approval before they could withdraw 5 000 acres of public land for their own use.

Agencies: The House has approved $250 000 for a broad investigation to determine whether federal regulatory agencies are carrying out the laws as originally intended by Congress Democratic congressmen have said they are getting numerous complaints that some of the agencies are not meting out fair treatment

NEW SALVATION ARMY BOARD — These men figured in the reorganization of the Salvation Army Advisory Board last night at the local citadel on Schoonmaker avenue. They are (l. to r.) Richard Bow, outgoing chairman, a post he held for 15 years; Joseph Polkabla, vice chairman; Harry Gribben, new chairman; Charles Palomaki, secretary; Fred C. Stockus, treasurer and Capt. John Connors, in charge of the local citadel.

Packrall Petition May Be Declared Invalid

Acting as the Election Board, the Washington County Commissioners this afternoon were poised to declare invalid the nomination papers of Mike Packrall for County Controller on the Non-Partisan ticket.

The commissioners were expected to take official action at a meeting scheduled for 1 30 this afternoon in the courthouse.

The indications were yesterday that the nomination papers would be invalidated because Packrall is inconsistently in the primary field as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for tax collector in Centerville borough

Two assistant county solicitors told Commissioners Francis E Petit and William J. Lane yesterday that the nomination papers filed by Packrall for controller carry a defective affidavit The affidavit certifies that Packrall, a Centerville businessman, is not a candidate for any public office in the ensuing May 21 primary

If, as is indicated, the Board invalidates the nomination papers containing more than 1,300 names, it will mean that Packrall's name will not appear on the ballot in November as the Controller candidate of the "Non-Partisan Party."

The Board's decision, however, is subject to appeal by Packrall

The fact that Packrall was in an inconsistent position because of the nominating petitions for tax collector and the nomination papers for controller was called to the attention of the Election Board by W. W. Croner, chief clerk of the election department

Packrall said by telephone last night that he would probably not answer the summons and appear before the Election Board today

Some possibility also exists that a challenge to the nomination petitions will be filed with the county court notwithstanding the probable action of the Commissioners.

Deputy Controller Russell Marino attended the meeting yesterday and gave evidence that the challenging petition might still be filed so that this ordinary avenue of appeal would not be by-passed in case Packrall successfully challenges any action of the Election Board.

The final date for such a challenge is Monday which would be prior to the end of Packrall's challenge period and this chronology could easily preclude the legal challenge being filed.

Such a petition, if filed, could be withdrawn if Packrall fails to appeal or if the court upholds the Election Board if Packrall does appeal the Board's decision.

Passover Observance Here to Begin Sunday

Passover, the Feast of Liberation, will be observed by members of the Jewish faith beginning at sunset Sunday.

Special services have been scheduled for this occasion at the Kneseth Israel Synagogue in Monessen. Rabbi Theodore Stampfer said services will be held at 6.30 p. m. on Monday and Tuesday and at 7 a. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Commemorating the emancipation of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage under the leadership of Moses, the holiday's celebration consists of recalling the miracles which God performed in freeing the Hebrews from slavery.

A ceremonial supper, called the Seder, ushers in the festival Monday evening. Special foods and symbols are explained by the head of the household as the family recites blessings and reads together the entire story of the redemption from the Haggadah, a book used just for the Seder ceremony. The Matzoh, or unleavened bread, eaten during the holiday represents the scanty rations the Jews prepared in their haste to leave the land of oppression.

In preparation for the festival, pupils of Kneseth Israel religious school will present a model Seder Sunday beginning at 10:15 a. m.

On Friday, April 19, Rabbi Stampfer will talk on "The Significance of the Passover Today".

Where Politics Is Out of Place

MOST CITIZENS undoubtedly will react with dismay to the information, apparently well founded, that political influence has been playing a part in the decisions of the state Pardons Board.

A member of the Board, Miss Genevieve Blatt, who is also Secretary of Internal Affairs, an elective office, has testified under oath that she was approached by Matthew H. McCloskey, the wealthy Philadelphia contractor who is a power in the Democratic Party nationally, on behalf of David Darcy, a condemned murderer.

Mr. McCloskey has denied under oath any intention to influence the Pardons Board. He admits, however, that he presented several of its members with briefs on behalf of Darcy, saying this was his "legal right" as a citizen.

But unless Mr. McCloskey is in the habit of distributing the legal briefs of condemned murderers, it is still not quite clear just what his interest in the Darcy case was.

But just the thought that politics may have anything at all to do with the process by which criminal justice, as imposed by the courts, is modified is revolting. We cannot think of any area of government in which political influence is more out of place.

Come to think of it, however, are we really entitled to be so surprised and shocked by these disclosures? Politics has been known to keep professional racketeers out of jail even after repeated convictions. It has kept ballot-box stuffers from paying the penalty of that vicious and subversive attack on the very basis of our democracy. Political influence has helped more than one individual cheat Uncle Sam on the payment of income taxes due him.

So need we be surprised to learn that politics can save a gang of wanton killers from a sentence imposed by a trial court and upheld through endless appeals to higher courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court itself?

The public is sometimes inclined not to take too seriously the interference of politics and politicians in matters where both are out of place. Such interference is often accepted as just part of the game and nothing to get worked up about.

But the evidence which is coming out of the Pardons Board investigation, and especially in the Darcy case, may serve to make more people aware of the awful danger of letting politicians overstep their bounds and throw their influence into the scales against the welfare of society itself.

Showing the Way

THE OFFICIALS in charge of enforcing Allegheny County's smoke control law are showing signs of wanting to discover just how effective such a law can be in a predominantly industrial area.

They have recommended to the county commissioners that criminal charges be brought under the anti-smoke law against seven industrial firms, including steel mills, railroads and electric power utilities. They cite specific violations over a period of time and contend that these have been due, not to the nature of such industrial operations as the making of steel, but to carelessness or indifference on the part of these companies and their employes.

News reports say the commissioners were surprised by these recommendations and have referred them to their legal adviser for "study".

But the smoke control authorities say that the time has come to find out whether this law is intended for the "big fellows" as well as for "little fellows" such as homeowners who have been required to install smokeless heating equipment or to buy more expensive smokeless fuels. They contend, with some logic, that smoke control can't amount to very much unless everybody's smoke is controlled.

We can be grateful to our neighbors in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County for wrestling with these problems. Out here smoke control is seldom mentioned above a whisper, and the old myth persists that smoke is synonymous with good times. We haven't yet found the courage to come to grips in an official way with the one thing above all others that blights the life and impedes the progress of our communities.

Some day however, we will surely want to attack this problem as we ought to be attacking it even now. And when that day comes, it will be helpful to have had others show us how to overcome some of the obstacles and win some of the battles that inevitably will have to be fought.

Merry-Go-Round—

Pan Am Got Unwarranted Subsidies

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the Congressional economizers won't to save some more money, the CAB and Sen. Paul Douglas have shown them an important way to do it.

Mr. Pearson

The collection from Pan American Airways of $5,900,000 of overpaid 1954 subsidies, plus a proposed collection of $6,500,000 as a result of bookkeeping which requires scrutiny is one way by which the government can make money instead of cutting down on such important projects as schools.

"The recent bookkeeping windfall to Uncle Sam was the direct result of the hiring of 30 extra auditors by the Civil Aeronautics Board to check on the subsidiaries of the farflung Pan American Airways. For a long time, certain members of the CAB, led by ex-Commissioner Joe Adams, have been trying to get the money to examine Pan Am's books. These CAB officials were suspicious that the big airline, with more subsidies than any other American company, was collecting extra subsidies from American taxpayers by failing to bill its foreign subsidiaries for services. But the CAB was never able to get a thorough look at the subsidiaries' books.

Douglas Gets Credit

Credit for finally collecting this money goes first to Senator Douglas of Illinois, who, in speech after speech, urged his Senate colleagues both to cut down on airline subsidies and to hire enough auditors to look at the books. In the House of Representatives, Congressman John Rooney of Brooklyn did the same. Douglas argued that the American taxpayers, through subsidies to Pan Am, were paying for luxury hotels and Pan Am's foreign subsidiaries. He began this campaign in 1953, continued through 1954 and 1955.

Finally he won out. Thirty extra auditors were hired.

Credit also goes to Joe Adams, who harped on the same subject — and got dropped for his pains. After Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, close friend of Pan Am, called at the White House last December it was made known Adams would not be reappointed to the CAB.

Republicans Got Tough

Finally, credit goes to Ross Rizley, recent Republican chairman of the CAB, and to the new Republican chairman, James R. Durfee. Both men are "sleepers." Rizley was a lame-duck Congressman from Oklahoma who turned out to be one of the best CAB chairmen in some years, so good that adroit moves were made to get thim off the board and onto the federal bench.

Chairman Durfee, former GOP chairman of the Wisconsin Public Utilities Commission, has also proved to be a tough, play-no-favorites commissioner.

The order which Chairman Durfee has now published, reopening Pan American files, is one of the most sweeping ever issued by the CAB. After enumerating various cases in which Pan Am failed to charge its Mexican and Central American subsidiaries for services rendered, the CAB order concluded:

"As a result of these various matters, it appears that Pan American's subsidy needs may have been substantially overstated and that completion of the audit may disclose other discrepancies."

In a direct implication that Pan Am engaged in faulty bookkeeping, the CAB stated: "It was not until fiscal 1956 when the CAB received appropriations for a substantial increase in its audit staff that such a project (of auditing) could be and was undertaken.

"The board, we think, was entitled to assume that the carrier's reports and filing were correct.

"Pan American is yet to be heard from in connection with all these matters," the CAB order stated. "On the other hand, the audit may disclose still further areas requiring exploration.

Huge Subsidies

"Our duty in this respect is plainly evident when it is considered that transactions between Pan American and its affiliates aggregate some $50,000,000 annually."

This refers to the fact that Pan Am is now the only airline receiving a major government subsidy.

In 1956 Pan Am received $2,669,000 subsidy on its Atlantic Division, $11,482,000 on its Latin American Division, and $1,356,000 on its Alaskan Division. TWA received no subsidy whatsoever, though it flies the Atlantic, parallel to PAA, and has the less profitable run through the Near East. Northwest Airlines received $1,483,000 on its Great Circle Pacific run, and Pan Am is now trying to get certificated to fly that route.

Between 1951-56, TWA received total subsidy of $1,586,000 on its ocean operations. During the same period Pan Am received the huge total of $138,615,000.

Today and Tomorrow—

Britain's New Defense Policy

By WALTER LIPPMANN

LONDON — A full explanation of the new British defense policy, which was set forth in an official White Paper last week, would have to include a review of what has happened in world politics during the past seven or eight years. The review might well begin in 1949 when the Soviet Union broke the American monopoly of atomic weapons. This enormous event precipitated the race in nuclear armaments and in guided missiles.

Mr. Lippmann

For Britain particularly, with her large committments and her diminished economic resources, this revolution in the military art has posed a problem which has to be met. Britain cannot afford, indeed there are no nations which can really afford, to finance the full development of the new weapons while maintaining at the same time conventional, but up-to-date, armies, navies, and air forces.

For Britain, and indeed for all the countries of Europe and Asia, the new weapons have raised the question whether there is in fact any such thing as defense, in the ordinary sense of the ability to repel an attack. If there is no adequate defense, then there is no security except the prevention of nuclear war by deterrence on the one hand and by diplomacy on the other.

Britain Leads Way

For a number of reasons Great Britain has been the first of the big powers to speak distinctly and openly about the complex problems which are posed by this military revolution, and to reshape its own military policy accordingly. There need be no doubt in our minds that this White Paper will have an influence far beyond Great Britain on military thinking and planning. The document is unusually candid and explicit for an official statement. But time will show, I imagine, that there is a lot to be read between the lines.

There is, for example, the blunt statement "that there is at present no means of providing adequate protection for the people of this country against the consequences of an attack with nuclear weapons," and that therefore "the overriding consideration in all military planning must be to prevent war rather than to prepare for it."

That is a very big thing for the British government to say. The practical military conclusion they draw from it is that Britain must have some deterrent nuclear power of her own if she is not to remain wholly dependent upon the United States. But what the British are saying will be read in countries which are no less defenseless and yet quite incapable of acquiring any deterrent nuclear power of their own.

U. S. Ahead in Missiles

The British conclusion depends, so I gather, upon a current assumption that the United States is ahead of the Soviet Union in the race to produce guided missiles of intermediate range, and that in not too long a time the United States will be able to supply Britain and the NATO countries with these missiles.

If this fundamental assumption is correct, we are entering a period — which may last for a few years — in which the balance of nuclear power will be theoretically and statistically, inclined against the Soviet Union. For, again theoretically, the Soviet Union will be within range of the intermediate missiles which are based in Britain and Western Europe whereas the United States would be somewhat less vulnerable.

Many of us, myself included, do not think such theoretical calculations are reliable enough in the real world to be taken very seriously as a basis of practical policy. But the assumption that the United States has a lead in the field of intermediate missiles is very much in the minds of the military planners all over the world. Britain, for example, would in any event have had to reduce its military establishment and its overseas committments. But the intermediate missiles, which are promised for delivery in the five-year period during which Britain is to reduce its military forces, can be cited to support the claim that the overall power of Britain relative to the Soviet Union will nevertheless not have been reduced.

The Soviet Warnings

It is most probable, too, that the Soviet warnings to Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands and to Western Europe generally are addressed primarily to this problem of the intermediate missiles. Quite evidently, Moscow is genuinely disturbed at the prospect of being encircled by a ring of guided missiles with nuclear warheads, especially if for some years to come she will have no comparable power to strike at the United States.

The Soviet warnings contain big threats of what would happen if intermediate missiles were launched from Western Europe. But it is only fair to note that there is no suggestion in these warnings that the Soviet Union is considering a preventive attack if the missiles are actually installed in Britain and elsewhere. Such a preventive attack would of course bring into action the United States, and it seems plain that the Soviet Union has no intention, indeed quite the contrary, of starting a great war.

If the basic assumption of a temporary Western superiority is sound, it means only that our diplomatic bargaining power, which has fallen so low since Hungary and the Suez fiasco, may for a time be somewhat restored. But the advantage, if indeed we have one, will however be temporary and shortlived. For the Soviet Union will assuredly catch up with us if indeed she is lagging behind.

One would feel better about all this if in London and in Washington the directors of our diplomacy were willing to think as freshly and frankly as were the authors of the British White Paper on military policy.

The Cynic's Corner—

"My kite was shot down by an air force missile gone haywire . . ."

Behind The News—

Russia Is Worried by New British Policy

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russia seems to be more worried than any Western country over Great Britain's revolutionary new armaments policy.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's announcement that Britain's defense system would be put on a nuclear age basis, with a consequent drastic cut in the armed forces, came as a shock to military experts of the North Atlantic Treaty organization countries.

Mr. McCann

Fear was expressed that the foundation of NATO's primary objective might be weakened fatally.

This objective is to provide a defensive screen of armies and air forces sufficient to slow up a mass Russian attack on Western Europe.

Only Course Open

The fear has subsided somewhat. There seems to be a growing feeling that Macmillan took the only course open to him, considering the necessity for sharp reduction in government spending.

But Soviet Russian fear seems to be intensifying.

The chief reason seems to be the realization of the threat that nuclear weapons bases in NATO countries would present to Russia if World War III broke out.

Russia's fear is being shown in an incessant stream of warnings broadcast to NATO countries that they would face destruction if they permitted their territory to be used for nuclear weapons bases.

Specific warnings have been broadcast to Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, West Germany and Turkey. A broadcast in Greek warned that Cyprus might be involved in a general catastrophe. Broadcasts in Spanish, though they have not mentioned Spain, have warned of this danger. Spain, though not a member of NATO, is the site of important American bases.

Neutral Sweden Included

Even Sweden, which is not a NATO member and preserves neutrality, has been accused of departing from its neutral course and permitting its "reactionary circles" to spy against Russia.

That Russia could devastate countries of Western Europe there is no doubt. But Soviet leaders know that Russia would suffer catastrophic attacks itself from Allied bases, extending from Western Europe to Turkey, which are within easy range of vital targets in the Soviet Union.

The Woman's View—

Girls: Let Men Help Pick Spring Bonnets

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — When it comes to buying a spring bonnet, let the man in your life have the last word for a change.

Mrs. Sally Victor said that if women paid more attention to masculine advice, there would be fewer outlandish hats in the Easter Parade.

Gay Pauley

"Men for the most part have better taste than women," said Mrs. Victor, who makes the hats worn by the nation's First Lady.

Does Mrs. Eisenhower listen to the President?

"She certainly does," said the milliner. "I don't know of any hat he's turned thumbs down on completely. But she gets the same glow as any other woman when complimented on what she's wearing.

Men like women in feminine hats, she said. "I don't mean fussy," she added, "but soft in line and color. Men don't like those stiff, wired-looking sailors, for instance."

Mrs. Victor said that despite all the warnings, the Easter Parade will be cluttered with hat mistakes. She listed some of the inevitable buying errors.

"The biggest is buying a hat because a friend likes it," she said.

Another is the woman's insistence on a certain color because "someone told her when she was 16 the shade was flattering, and she's been featuring it ever since. Women forget that skin tone and hair color change from those sweet-16 days."

Or, a woman buys a hat because it's "safe" — the shape, she expalined, was becoming 20 years ago so the woman assumes it still is, although she may be heavier, her face fuller, her shoulders rounder.

"Don't shop with a pre-conceived notion of the size and shape of hat you want," said Mrs. Victor.

Another mistake: Buying a hat without really seeing it. Mrs. Victor said most women buy hats sitting down, and never stand up and walk around to see how the hat balances with the figure and the costume.

"Proportion," she said, "is everything in dress."

Look at the hat from all angles, she added. Try to see it as others will.

"And," Mrs. Victor said, "if you go to a milliner, trust her.

"It's to the milliner's advantage to sell a becoming hat. The woman who wears it is her best advertisement."

Ike's Program Menaced By Economy Wave

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — Assessments of Republican sentiment in Congress indicated Thursday there will be growing top resistance to major parts of President Eisenhower's legislative program.

It was doubted, however, that many Republican lawmakers will go so far as to make a clean break with the administration.

Mr. Lahr

These conclusions were suggested by estimates of senior GOP senators after they read the President's latest defense of his legislative program and his 7 billion dollar budget at Wednesday's news conference.

Must Meet Problems

Eisenhower's comment was prompted by a question mentioning Monday's Senate speech by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), who said the administration budget repudiated 1952 GOP campaign pledges.

The President said the government could not go back to practices of 1890, but must develop new approaches to meet new problems. Developing such approaches, he said, results in a clash of opinions.

Stoutly defending his peacetime record $71,800,000,000 budget, he said. "I believe profoundly in the things that we have proposed as necessary for this country, and in other cases we have programs that have been with us for years."

"There is no chance of reversing them and, indeed, there is probably only a few few of them that should be dropped."

What appears to be the dominant GOP view in Congress is that there is a public demand—too strong to be ignored—for budget reductions.

This single fact has beefed up Republican and Democratic opposition to parts of the Eisenhower legislative program, particularly those that cost money.

As one Republican senator put it:

"More and more you're going to find Republicans in the Senate taking their own positions on various issues without regard for the administration position."

If this attitude prevails, it could mean serious trouble for the administration program in Congress.

Aluminum Greyhound to Cost $210

An aluminum Greyhound will be hoisted atop the facade at the Knox Ave. entrance of the Monessen High gym in the next couple of weeks. The eight-foot "emblem" is a gift from the Class of 1957. He's now a top aide at Wake Forrest College . . . In Charleroi, the Booster Club has decided against buying traditional jackets for senior athletes. Pirates Set Aside Knot Hole Dates

The Pittsburgh Pirates have set aside 12 dates this season to accommodate "Knot Hole Clubs." Youngsters between the ages of 9 and 15 will be admitted free to Forbes Field on those dates if they are members of accredited groups. Agencies wishing to become Knot Hole Club members may do so by applying to Mrs. Alice Eckert, at Forbes Field . . . In Charleroi, they're going ahead with elaborate plans for the baseball diamond at Recreation Park. A veteran group has turned over $5000 to get the project in high gear. A six foot high chain link fence and backstop will be erected first. On the agenda for later are bleachers, dressing quarters, rest rooms and dugouts.

According to WPIAL president William Dolde, there's a movement afoot in the PIAA to "control basketball coaches on the benches during games." Discloses Dolde: "Representatives from the eastern part of the state were leaders in this movement, apparently having experienced some trouble in this respect during the past year. The board (PIAA) was talking in terms of putting more power into the hands of the officials in order to control the coaches' actions on the bench. However I am glad to report that in this part of the state, we have experienced very little in the way of demonstrations by coaches during games."

Monessen Nine Upsets Monongahela

Greyhounds Turn Back Visitors, 7-3, At Ninth St. Park

Monessen High's rebuilt baseball team wasted no time in authoring the first big upset of the Section 17 season.

The upstart Greyhounds polished off heavily favored Monongahela, 7-3, yesterday at Ninth Street Park. And they did it the hard way — with a late rally after two men had been retired.

Coach John Hayduk's boys trailed 3-2 going into the sixth inning. The Hounds then exploded for five runs to ice the game.

The setback was a rude jolt for the visitors, who are rated the only serious chance of supplanting defending champion Charleroi in the valley race.

Monongahela started off as expected by scoring two runs in the first inning. However the Hounds squared things in the third when Jimmy Sepesky cleared the right field fence with a mate aboard.

Kikla Homers

In the fifth, Monongahela star Ed Kikla also round-tripped. That set the stage for Monessen's five run rally in the sixth.

Myron Sepitko started on the hill for the Hounds. He fanned eight in five innings and pitched good ball. Walter Jackson, a curveballing sophomore, came on the sixth and received credit for the win after tossing two scoreless innings.

Monongahela's pitching chores were handled by Kikla, George Peters and Jack Evans. Peters suffered the loss.

The visitors capitalized on shaky pitching to tally a pair of runs in the first inning. Peters doubled to center and a pair of walks loaded the bases.

Forces in Run

Sepitko then hit Milton Diaz to force in one run and Dee Galiffa walked to push over another. After that, Sepitko settled down to handle the hard-hitting Mononga-helans without too much trouble.

Monessen squared things in the third when John Kaminsky walked and the hard-hitting Sepesky sent one of Kikla's fast balls far over the right field fence.

In the fifth, Kikla put his team in front with a homer at the same spot.

Monessen came right back in the sixth despite some screwy baserunning which almost spoiled things. Mike Kunsa walked along with Jackson. With Churan at bat, the two baserunners tried what appeared to be a double steal. At any rate Kunsa was tossed out at third. When Churan fanned, it looked like the rally was destined to die.

Kaminsky Singles

However Jim Baker worked a walk and Kaminsky singled to deep third to lead the sacks.

Sam Thorpe, who looks like a good prospect, came through with a clean smash over second. When Kikla muffed the ball in centerfield, all three base runners scored. Sepesky walked to keep the rally going.

Carl Crawley, Monessen's big stickman, produced with a screaming double over third to score the fourth and fifth runs of the innings.

That was the ball game.

MHS Thinclads At Brownsville For Meet Today

The Monessen thinclads travel to Brownsville today to inaugurate the 1957 track season in a triangular meet with Monongahela and the host Brownies.

Hit hard by graduation last June, Coach Cliff Jones will be going with new faces almost all the way down the line.

The only experienced returnees are Bill Donnell and George Seielyo. Loaded with sophomores and juniors, the MHS cindermen are obviously headed for a better future.

Slated to run for Monessen in today's 100 yard dash are Donnell and Algie Link, while the 220 will be handled by Bob Pauline and Link. Pacing off in the 440 will be George Shuma and Tracy Allen. In the 880 will be Donnell and Paul Tobacco.

Going in the mile run for the Hounds will be Ray Kolich and Jack Bergstein.

Mile Relay

The mile relay team will be made up of Joe Karbowsky, Ron Ruokonen, Ron Rusal and Shuma. Running the 880 relay will be Link, Pauline, John Sivak and Jim Lewitsky.

In both the low and high hurdles, the Hounds will enter Seleylo and Paul Dzyak.

In the field events, Jones will go with Karbowsky and Dan Barton in the high jump; Donnell in the broad jump; James Aldrich and Ed Allen in the shotput and Barton, Pauline and Allen in the javelin.

Commission Clears Manager Bunny Buntag

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The state Athletic Commission has ruled manager Bunny Buntag did not short change welterweight Johnny Eubans on his share of a fight purse.

In fact, it said, Buntag gave his fighter more than the usual share.

The commission's finding was announced after a hearing Thursday on Eubanks' statement he received only $170 of a $758 purse from his fight with Wilf Greaves in February.

Eubanks made his statement at a non-support hearing in Criminal Court two weeks ago. He explained at the commission hearing he did not intend the statement as a complaint.

Commissioner Paul Sullivan said the fighter's explanation was supported by the judge.

The commission audit showed Eubanks' two-thirds share after training expenses were deducted came to $436, of which he received $175. His indebtedness to Buntag, from whom he had borrowed prior to the fight, totaled $333.

Valley Umps in Meeting Tonight

The Mon Valley Umpires Association will meet tonight at the Ravens Club beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Secretary George Kuvinka urged all members to be prompt.

Kuvinka Returns as MVL Commissioner

Gorge Kuvinka will return as commissioner of the Mon Valley Baseball League.

The former Monessen High athlete, who now lives in California, agreed last night during a meeting to reconsider his earlier decision to resign as boss of the valley circuit.

Once again, Kuvinka will be assisted in his chores by league secretary Chuck Zubritsky of Monessen.

Seven teams were represented at last night's meeting in the Monessen Sport Shop.

The list of "definite" 1957 entries includes the Monessen Ozarks, Monessen USW, Charleroi Merchants, Donora USW, Fayette City, New Eagle and Van Voorhis.

Earlier Perryopolis had indicated that it intended to enter the upcoming race. However league officials were unable to reach Perryopolis representatives last night.

Finleyville Out

Finleyville reported that efforts to restore the community's storm-damaged diamond in time for the '57 campaign have failed. Because of that, the team will have to give up its franchise. It was understood that most of the Finleyville players will join Van Voorhis.

The current season will open on Monday, May 6. If Van Voorhis draws a home game for the opener, then the Vans will start a day sooner on May 5.

The league agreed to adopt a new ball — the McGregor 97. According to sporting goods dealers that ball is "livelier" than the one used last season.

The next MVL meeting will be held on April 25.

Canadiens Hope To Sweep Series

BOSTON (UP)— The elated Montreal Canadiens insisted on being cautious today but they found it hard to cloak their confidence in sweeping the Stanley Cup championship from the skidding Boston Bruins.

"The only real important game to win is the last one," said Montreal coach Toe Blake after Thursday night's easy 4-2 victory in the third game of the best-of-seven playoff series.

Few among the capacity garden crowd of 13,909 were as guarded as Blake in the feeling that the defending cup champions were within quick sight of the ninth crown. Most felt that the clincher would be here Sunday in the fourth game and there was hardly anyone who doubted the playoffs would go beyond next Tuesday at Montreal.

If you could stay in one spot for a year and keep looking at the sky, you should see about 4,000 stars.

Midget League To Hold Important Meeting Tonight

A very important Monessen Midget Football League meeting will be held tonight at 9 p. m. in the Ravens Club to discuss plans for the erection of a modern concession stand at Memorial Stadium.

Alex Kachmarik, who has been named chairman of the promotion, said that everyone is invited to the meeting "particularly parents of the players."

The MFL hopes to construct the 90-foot long building with volunteer labor.

In return for the building, the School Board has promised five — and possibly ten — years of concession privileges. The league hopes to finance its program "painlessly" in this manner.

Detailed plans of the proposed building have already been drawn and will be explained at tonight's meeting.

"Everyone interested in the Midget League should make a special effort to attend this meeting," said Kachmarik.

Charleroi Raps Donora, 6 to 1

Charleroi's defending Section 17 baseball champions had no trouble pasting Donora, 6-1, in their season opener at home yesterday.

Carl Witmyer and Ron Zelenski teamed to set the Donorans down on two hits.

Charleroi collected seven safeties off of freshman Chuck Guilfrida and junior Dave Russell.

Charleroi scored single runs in the first and second innings, then added pairs in the third and sixth.

Tim Lee, Joe Uhlman and Mike Felak each had two safeties for the victors.

Score by innings:

Donora	000	100	0—1	2	2
Charleroi	112	002	x—6	7	3

Guiffrida, Russell and Russell, Dabero; Witmyer, Zelenski and Uhlman.

Ozarks to Begin Workouts Tomorrow

The Monessen Ozarks will begin their pre-season practice tomorrow at Ninth Street Park beginning at 5 p. m.

The Ozarks also have a practice scheduled for Sunday at 4:30 p. m.

Tony Mascetta, manager, has invited all interested players to report for the workouts.

MHS Nine to Meet Bellmar This Afternoon

Monessen High's surprising baseballers will play host to Bellmar this afternoon at Ninth Street Park beginning at 4 p. m.

Coach John Hayduk's youthful students opened their 1957 season yesterday by tripping Monongahela, 7-3.

Bellmar started the day before, dropping a 5-3 decision to California.

Both teams have already used their "front line" pitchers, so today's starting mound opponents are not certain.

Monessen may go with either junior Dan Barton or sophomore Walter Jackson, who tosesd two innings yesterday.

The Hurricanes have both Bob Beggs and Conrad Luperi ready for duty.

Originally the Canes and Hounds were to play Monday but rain forced a postponement.

The Section 17 race will feature three tussles next Monday. Donora will show at Monessen, Charleroi will go to Bellmar and Monongahela will travel to California.

PONY League Meets Tonight

An important PONY League meeting will be held tonight at 8 p. m. in the Civic Center.

All members are urged to attend.

Gonzales Moves to Semi-Finals

CLEVELAND (UP)— Tennis champion Pancho Gonzales will try for a fifth straight title Friday night against Pancho Segura in the world professional tennis tournament.

Gonzales, who has defeated Segura for the title the past two years, gained the finals by outlasting former Davis Cupper Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, in Thursday night's matches, 3-6 11-9 8-6.

Segura easily eliminated Ken Rosewall of Australia, 6-1, 6-3, in his match, which lasted only 20 minutes.

Segura and Dinny Pails, former Australian Davis Cupper, meet Gonzales and Rosewall in the doubles final tonight.

Segura and Pails turned back Trabert and Don Budge, 6-2, 6-4, Thursday night while Gonzales and Rosewall defeated rank Parker and Bobby Riggs, 7-5, 6-1.

$49.50

yet you'd expect to pay more for this fine worsted suit!

The traditional blue dress has undergone a few changes. The shoulders have a slender, more natural look, coat lapels and trouser legs have taken on a slimmer, trimmer appearance. But, in spite of the subtle style-changes, there's a great deal about a Wolf blue that hasn't changed. For example, Wolf's still give you fine wool worsteds, Wolf's still puts the meticulous tailoring of much more expensive garments into every suit. And Wolf's still sells this quality for a mere $49.50!

Managers Discuss Big League Season

By UNITED PRESS

Casey Stengel agreed today with almost everybody else in baseball that the New York Yankees should repeat as American League champions while even the usually-conservative Walt Alston said the same thing about his National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

But those comments were only a part of the picture of optimism painted by all the 16 pilots. All know they may be crying at the block in September, but they're smiling and keeping a stiff upper lip in April.

Here's what the managers had to say (teams listed in the order of their 1956 finishes):

National League

Walt Alston, Dodgers: "I feel we are stronger than last year and should win again. It should be a tough race with Cincinnati, Milwaukee and St. Louis right up in the thick of it, too. Pittsburgh is going to be tougher and Philadelphia has good pitching. Pitching could be our strongest point or weakest, but I'm sure the potential is there and in Clem Labine, Don Bessent and Ed Roebuck we have the best bullpen in baseball."

Fred Haney, Braves: "We should win this year for a number of reasons. Some of our players like Aaron, Adcock and Mathews have not reached their full potential as yet. We figure on getting better hitting from Thomson, Crandall, O'Connell and Bruton. Our pitching will again be the league's best and our bullpen right now looks much stronger."

Birdie Tebetts, Redlegs: "I predict a five-club race with the Pirates and Cardinals in the contending group along with the Dodgers, Braves and my team. I'm optimistic over our chances. I'm satisfied our pitching will be good enough and that players like Post, Kluszewski and Nuxhall should have better seasons in 1957. If we can avoid injuries and have our key players come up with good seasons, We should go all the way."

Fred Hutchinson, Cardinals: "Our pitching definitely should be improved this year and I figure the Cardinals have an excellent chance to finish in the first division. We'll have Wehmeier from the start, Mizell with a full season since his Army service should get off to a better start and Wilhelm should help the bullpen a lot. We know we can field a satisfactory defensive club."

Mayo Smith, Phillies: "Last year's race was close, but this one can be closer. The league has more balance and even the Cubs are going to be stronger. Brooklyn may miss Robinson, but the Dodgers seem to have everything. So does Milwaukee. You can't tell about Cincinnati. They have the best second base combination in the business, but you don't know if Robinson, Bailey and Lawrence are going to have good years. As for my club, we have the pitching depth but we need more hitting. We think Fernandez will solve our shortstop problem."

Bill Rigney, Giants: "I'm sure we'll finish higher than sixth and I think we might have finished in the first division except for Bill Sarni's heart ailment. If Gail Harris, Andre Rodgers and Ossie Virgil make it as regulars, I believe we'll surprise a lot of people."

Bobby Bragan, Pirates: "We're starting with more or less a set team. I now know the personnel and know the league. We have the best all-around outfield in the majors in Lee Walls, Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente. Our infield of Dale Long, Bill Mazeroski, Dick Groat and Frank Thomas can do the job. We could use more pitching behind Bob Friend, Ron Kline, Vern Law and Roy Face.

Bob Scheffing, Cubs: "We are going to have plenty of good young pitching as probably our greatest asset. We'll be short on power, but we hope to offset this lack by an improved defense, particularly in the outfield."

American League

Casey Stengel, Yankees: "There'll be some pretty good clubs chasing us, but I am happy about things so far as the Yankees are concerned. We've got to have the best team in the league because all the other clubs are after my players. But I don't think winning the pennant is going to be easy. The White Sox will give us a run for it—Lopez is too good a manager to finish second all the time. Detroit has good pitching and good hitting and was the best team in the league the last month and a half of last season. I don't understand why some don't rate Cleveland any higher."

Kerby Farrell, Indians: "You can't ever count out a team with pitching so how can anybody count out the Indians? We've still got Score, Wynn, Lemon, Garcia, Narleski and Mossi and we may have a good youngster in Hank Aguirre. What we're doing is trying to figure a way to score more runs. If we succeed, count us in the pennant race."

Al Lopez, White Sox: "As a manager of Cleveland, I got tired of following the Yankees and I know the White Sox have been following the Yankees and Indians each year since 1951. This year we're going to try to get off to a fast start and let the Yankees and the rest of the league chase the White Sox—we hope right to the end of the season."

Mike Higgins, Red Sox: "The key to how far we are going is our pitching. The Yankees are not a shoo-in by any means. Any one of five clubs—The White Sox, Red Sox, Indians and Tigers as well as the Yankees—can do it."

Jack Tighe, Tigers: "The Tigers' pitching should be stronger this year with Lary, Hoeft and Foytack showing improvement and Bunning, Mays and Lee helping out. We strengthened our bench, especially in the infield and our hitting could be even better than last year if Harvey Kuenn and Ray Boone can go full speed all season."

Paul Richards, Orioles: "We hope to be considerably improved in pitching depth this year with a well balanced staff consisting of strong - armed youngsters plus a canny relief corps. Our defensive infield should compare with any in baseball and we also will be stronger in the outfield. If the hitting should come through as expected, we will be a greatly improved club."

Chuck Dressen, Senators: "I don't see how anybody is going to beat the Yankees but I guess Cleveland has the best chance. I don't think New York is a solid club this year with everything a manager needs."

Lou Boudreau, Athletics: "I don't think the Yankees will make a runaway of this race. I'm sure I'm going to break out of the cellar and pass both the Orioles and Senators."

St. Louis Nips Boston, 96 to 94, In Pro Series

ST LOUIS (UP)— The St. Louis Hawks, who won't give up, and the talented Boston Celtics meet in Boston Saturday afternoon for the world championship of basketball.

The National Basketball Association playoffs are going down to the seventh and deciding game as the result of rookie Cliff Hagan's run-in a second before the buzzer sounded Thursday night. The junior star gave the Hawks a 96-94 victory to even the series at three victories each.

"We're going up there to win," Hawk coach Alex Hannum said. He said "We shouldn't be where we are now. We have everything to gain and nothing to lose. We know we can beat them up there."

The Hawks opened the playoff with a victory over the Celtics at Boston.

Hagan was a star at the University of Kentucky where he averaged better than 25 points per game, but he said that Thursday night was the first time he had ever scored a winning point.

"I'll remember it the rest of my life. It was my greatest thrill in pro basketball," he said.

Neither Boston nor St. Louis has ever won an NBA championship.

No Picketing At Forbes Field

PITTSBURGH (UP)—There will be no picket line at Forbes Field next Tuesday when the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants meet in their season opener.

Judge Samuel A. Weiss Thursday approved a "gentlemen's agreement" between the Pirates management and the AFL-CIO Painters Union Council. The Pirates agreed to halt the painting of seats by the Forbes Field Protective Assn., an independent union, and the AFL-CIO union agreed to remove its pickets from the ballpark.

Judge Weiss said he would hear arguments April 22 on the Pirates' request for an injunction banning any picketing by the AFL-CIO group.

Kansas City Athletics Excite Home Town Fans: Trip Brooks

By UNITED PRESS

Call 'em what you like — the Kansas City Athletics or the New York Yankees' American League farm club — but Lou Boudreau's team gave the fans something to talk about in their 1957 home debut.

The first major league team to reach home, the ex-Yankee sprinkled Athletics rallied with four runs in the ninth inning Thursday to shade the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-4, Billy Hunter and Irv Noren contributed singles to the rally by way of emphasizing that old Yankees never forget how to beat the Dodgers.

First-baseman Vic Power of the Athletics was hit on the head by a throw by Don Zimmer in the ninth but was not believed seriously injured. He's being kept in Research Hospital for a few days, however.

Pirates Cop Another

The Pittsburgh Pirates rolled to their 19th victory in 27 games when they walloped the Detroit Tigers, 10-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Hall, Elroy Face and Bob Purkey. Dale Long blasted a two-run homer and rookie Paul Smith a three-run round-tripper for the Pirates.

The Chicago Cubs won their spring series with the Baltimore Orioles, 10 games to eight, with a 7-6 triumph over them. Dee Fondy led the Cubs' 12-hit attack with a pair of two-run homers.

Rookie Jack Sanford yielded only two hits in seven innings as the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the Boston Red Sox, 7-1, for their third win in four games with the American League rivals. Ted Williams produced the Red Sox' run when he clouted his fourth homer of the spring off Sanford in the seventh.

Mickey Mantle hit his third homer in as many games but the world champion New York Yankees suffered a 6-5 loss to Ed Lopat's Richmond Spiders of the International League. Neal Watlington singled home the winning run off Tom Sturdivant.

Cards Blank Chisox

Lindy McDaniel pitched seven innings and Willard Schmidt two, allowing a total of five hits, as the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Chicago White Sox, 5-0. Homers by Stan Musial and Hobie Landrith led the Card attack on Billy Pierce.

George Crowe's three-run homer in the eighth inning broke a tie and gave Cincinnati a 7-4 victory over the Senators at Washington despite homers by Ed Fitzgerald and Roy Sievers of the Senators.

Cleveland shoved over two runs in the ninth to beat the New York Giants, 6-4, at Miami. Giant lefty Johnny Antonelli, New York's opening game nominee, was blasted for 10 hits in eight innings but Early Wynn of the Indians, starting for the first time since March 17 because of an ailing hip, allowed only a homer by Willie Mays in five innings and walked none. It was Mays' 11th homer of the spring.

Vejar Takes on Jones Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—A rebuilt Chico Vejar promises some fast action Friday night in a 10-round middleweight bout with favored Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

Jones, the fifth ranked contender from Yonkers, N.Y., was a 2 to 1 favorite to spoil Vejar's winning streak of six bouts.

But 25-year-old Vejar of Stamford, Conn., believes he is "bigger and stronger" as a middleweight, although he fought as a welterweight most of his eight - year professional career. Each fighter is expected to weight about 158 pounds.

The 29-year-old Jones is a bruising body puncher who has won 43 of 63 fights with 17 losses and three draws. Vejar is a fast-stepping body puncher who has won 43 both hands well in 82 fights. He has won 72 with eight losses and two draws.

The War Memorial Auditorium bout will be nationally telecast and broadcast by NBC.

Odds Favor Yanks, Braves

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—Minneapolis odds-makers agreed with their New York brethren today that the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves probably will meet in the World Series this fall.

The Minneapolis "house," which supplies "official" odds for the nation, rated the Yankees a lopsided choice in the American League at 2-5 — almost identical with the 1-3 quotation on Broadway. The Braves were listed as 5-6 favorites, compared to 7-5 in New York.

After the Yankees, the Detroit Tigers are rated 3-1, Cleveland and Chicago each 4-1, Boston 9-1, and Baltimore, Kansas City, and Washington each 100-1.

The defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers are second choice in the NL at even money, follows by Cincinnati at 3-1, St. Louis at 10-1, Philadelphia at 80-1, and Pittsburgh, Chicago, and New York each 100-1.

Pick Courses For Open Golf

PITTSBURGH, (UP — The Mt Lebanon and St Clair golf courses have been selected for the Tri-state sectional qualifying for the National Open.

The qualifying rounds are listed for Monday, June 3. Two courses were chosen since it was considered likely more than 100 golfers would be trying for one of 141 places in the Open, which will be held at Inverness Club, Toledo, Ohio, June 13-15.

Twenty-one players are exempt from the sectional qualifiers, including Arnold Palmer of Latrobe who finished seventh in the Open last year.

Clemente Will Get Treatment; Pirates Win Again

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates try for their 20th spring exhibition victory Friday when they meet the Detroit Tigers here in the third game of the five-game "homebound" series.

Rightfielder Roberto Clemente was missing from the Pirate lineup. He was enroute to Pittsburgh for treatment of a recurring back injury, believed to be an old muscle tear which has not healed.

Clemente, who has complained about his ailing back since the start of the training season, will be under the care of Dr. Joe Finegold, club physician.

If Clemente isn't in the lineup when the season opens at Pittsburgh next Tuesday, Manager Bobby Bragan probably will send Ronan Mejias into the right field spot.

The Pirates hammered out 14 hits, including a two-run homer by Dale Long and a three-run blast by Paul Smith, to crush the Tigers 10-2, Thursday before 2,400 fans at Augusta, Ga.

Both homers came off Don Lee, rookie righthander who was tagged hard for the first time this spring, giving up eight hits and seven runs in five innings.

The victory gave the Pirates a 19-8 mark for the spring.

The tradition of eating hot cross buns during Lent goes back to the ancient Phoenicians. Hot cross buns were made to honor the moon goddess and were eaten in the season of the Vernal Equinox.

Gaskill Resigns As Golf Pro At Nemacolin

Willard (Bud) Gaskill, pro at Nemacolin Country Club for the past six seasons, has resigned, effective immediately.

The popular Gaskill who returned recently from a professional tour, submitted his resignation two weeks ago. It was accepted this week by the board of directors, according to president Jack Clark.

Gaskill said he has no immediate plans for the future.

He came to Nemacolin from Rochester, N. Y., succeeding Johnny Capebianco on April 2, 1951. Capebianco, currently at Penn Hills, near Bradford, left the Washington County club to become pro at Baldoc Hills, near Irwin.

Meanwhile, the board announced approval for a new pro shop, to be erected near the old No 17 tee.

Additional space will be provided for 40 new lockers.

It was also revealed that par on the revamped layout will remain at 72, although it will now be 35 on the front nine and 37 on the back nine.

Several changes in individual holes will be required to make room for the new swimming pool.

The board also approved 50 new applications for membership. Tom Flaherty is chairman of the membership committee.

Ike Gets 1957 Baseball Pass

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower now has his 1957 baseball season pass and, with it, some discouraging inside information about his favorite team, the Washington Senators.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators ball club, officially presented the President yesterday with season passes for himself and Mrs. Eisenhower, at the same time he "signed up" the Chief Executive to throw out the first ball at Monday's opening game against Baltimore.

Today's Sports Parade —

What Were Sports Stars Others Careers?

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Where would they be today if it wasn't for sports?

You get a lot of surprising answers when you ask that question of the guys who are household and headline names. They're all glad, too, that the breaks came the way they did.

The possibilities range all the way from plumber to president.

"I," says Chuck Dressen, manager of the Washington Senators, "might have been yardmaster by now in the freight yards at Decatur, Ill. I started as a switchman and was a foreman when I started playing ball."

Once A Crooner

Move over, Sinatra and Como. Because Claude Harmon, the former Masters champion of golf, had his eye set on being a crooner. Claude actually toured with a band as a singer in his late teens, and "had a hard time making up my mind whether to be a pro golfer."

Ray Robinson, the former middleweight champion who tries to regain the title from Gene Fullmer next month, knows without doubt that he would have been a dancer — which he was just before making his current comeback.

Jimmy Thomson, once famed as the longest hitter in golf, allows that he would have been a professional soccer player in Scotland if it hadn't been that his father led him into the fairway sport.

Tris Speaker, the Hall of Fame outfielder, figures he's "probably be climbing telephone poles in Hilisboro, Tex. — which is what I did as a kid."

Brothers Make Cigars

"My two brothers graduated from high school and went to work in a cigar factory in Tampa," says Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox. "Maybe that's what I'd have done."

Tony Cuccinello, the White Sox coach, started out as a plumber's helper on Long Island.

Billy Jurges, the former big league shortstop, would have filled the "president" category, he's certain.

"The fellow I worked with is president of that bank now," he grins.

But none of them would do it any differently now. On that you can lay odds.

Nations to Compete In World Trade Fair

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—This week in Manhattan:

It looks as if each nation is out to out-do the other in the world trade fair which opens next week in Manhattan.

This week, some of the countries participating in the first post war world fair in America, described some of the more fabulous items chosen to represent their industries, arts and crafts.

Britain for example is sending a coat, made of vicuna cloth, lined with diadem mink, and billed (at $3,500) as the most expensive girl's coat ever made.

Egypt is retaliating with a jewelry display, "a priceless" collection which the revolutionary government confiscated from ex-King Farouk.

The collection includes a solid gold antique hand mirror encrusted with assorted diamonds, rubies and sapphires; a pair of earrings set with 145-carat emerald; a cigarette holder with a 40-carat emerald; a gold enameled antique ash tray ornamented with emeralds, rubies and sapphires; a ring mounted with 145-carat star ruby and a gold dagger "as long as your forearm" inlaid with pearls, rubies and sapphires.

The fair will bring under one roof, at the Coliseum, some 500 million dollars worth of goods from 60 countries. It is to include an international food exhbiit, featuring everything from Danish cheese to Polish ham to Japanese grasshoppers. At least six countries will display their fashions. And most participating nations will show home furnishings and textiles.

From Italy will come a synthetic fiber produced chemically from of all things, castor oil. The fiber, called Rilsan, already is in use in Europe for hosiery, lingerie and bathing suits.

Bill to Raise School District Tax Defeated

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to increase the per capita school district tax from $5 to $10 has been defeated in the General Assembly.

The House bill fell Wednesday when its' supporters could not muster the required 106 vote majority. The legislation was voted down, 90-88.

The bill would have allowed the local school districts to assess individuals $10 and also increase personal tax from $5 to $10. The bill placed a $15 limit on the amount of money the school district could spend from the total. The remaining $5 would have gone to the municipality.

Rep. Marvin V. Keller (R-Bucks), who co-sponsored the measure, said the legislation was needed to "allow school districts to finance their programs without asking the Assembly for additional money."

Democratic Floor Leader Albert S. Readinger (Berks) said he opposed the bill because it would levy a "flat tax where the individual was earning thousands or millions."

Both Keller and the other co-sponsor, Rep. Margarette S. R. Kooker (R-Bucks) changed their votes in a maneuver to allow reconsideration later.

Sound Is Tourist Attraction

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — In this city of famous sights, a sound is the newest tourist attraction.

It is the wailing sound of a muzzin's voice issuing from a loudspeaker in the minaret of a mosque. Five times a day it calls Washington's Moslems to prayer with the sing-song Arabic words: "La Ilah illa Allah, Muhammed Rasulu Allah" (There is no God but Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet.)

The prayer calls were heard for the first time this month, at the start of the Moslem holy season of Ramadan. They will continue year-round in the future, as a regular part of worship at the Islamic Center now nearing completion on fashionable Massachusetts Avenue here.

Construction of this beautiful white mosque in the heart of the U.S. capital has brought home to American Christians a fact which their missionaries in Asia have been reporting, with mounting concern, for the past several years.

Show Vigorous Signs

The major Asian religions, after centuries of decline and decadence, are again showing vigorous signs of life. The strong spirit of nationalistic pride sweeping Asia has sparked a resurgence of loyalty to "native" faiths, such as Mohammedanism, Buddhism and Hinduism. And it has raised formidable new barriers to the further spread of Christianity, which many Asians associate with "Western colonialism."

Dr. Tracey K. Jones Jr., executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Missions, told a recent conference of Christian leaders that the Asian religions have now begun to "look upon the United States itself as a fertile ground for their missionary efforts."

"They are gaining converts and building temples in this country," he said.

A United Press survey, prompted by Dr. Jones' remarks, indicates that this "reverse missionary" effort is still on an extremely limited scale in America.

A spokesman for the Islamic Center said there are about 100,000 Moslems in the United States, of whom the vast majority are immigrants from Arab countries or the children of immigrants. The biggest Moslem communities are in New York, Detroit and Toledo, Ohio. The Washington mosque serves about 500 local Moslems, nearly all of whom are assigned to embassies of Arab nations here.

Coldest Spring Being Recorded

By UNITED PRESS

Icy temperatures gripped the nation today and plunged close to the zero mark in the northern Midwest in one of the coldest springs in history.

Arctic blasts from central Canada moved east from the Midwest into the Ohio Valley and south to Texas Thursday night and April snow blanketed the country from the lower Great Lakes to Texas.

The winter-in-spring flurries also hit in Colorado and North and South Dakota and mingled there with freezing rain to give highways a treacherous coat of ice.

Temperatures near zero, 30 degrees below normal, were forecast today for parts of North Dakota and Minnesota. Freezing temperatures also were expected to hover over northern Illinois and Indiana, as well as southern Missouri and northern Oklahoma.

Richard Tenneson, who was in Red China 22 months, worked briefly in his home town of Alden, Minn. Now he's a truck driver and helper for a job printing plant in a Minneapolis suburb. Samuel D. Hawkins, who decided he didn't like Red China, says he has been received "very well" by pre-army friends in Oklahoma City, Okla. Lewis Griggs says he recognizes his turncoat decision is a "black mark" on his personal history. He is attending a college near Jacksonville, Tex. The six were killed when gasoline was poured on the floor and lit. Included among the victims was the brother of a Belle Vernon woman. He is Harry Robinson, 63, a brother of Mrs. Von Ewart, of Jean street, Belle Vernon.

Mamie Enjoys Life With Her Own Circle

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UP) — When Mrs. Eisenhower isn't busy with chances are she is relaxing with one or more of a dozen women who make up "Mamie's circle."

Numerous stories have been written about the men closest to the President. But the women closest to the President's wife are a seldom-publicized group.

That suits Mrs. Eisenhower — and her friends — just fine. Their passion for anonymity is understandable. As it stands now, Mrs. Eisenhower can be completely at ease with members of the group.

She can join her friends for a game of Scrabble or Bolivia—she is not, like her husband, an ardent bridge player — or for a session of "chatting" without having to worry about her private comments or comings and goings becoming a matter of public discussion.

The friendly and sociable First Lady counts as "friends" literally scores of women, including some cabinet and other official wives. But her intimates are all long-time friends of years standing. Some bear names well known to the public; others are little known even to thoseefamiliar with Washington.

These are the women who are not surprised when they answer their telephones and find Mamie Eisenhower on the line. They are the ones who quietly come and go unannounced at the White House and whose apartment or homes are the destination of Mrs. Eisenhower's black limousine on unannounced excursions.

Sometimes the First Lady may find time for several social sessions a week with one or more of this group. Other times, she may not leave the White House for a week or more because of the press of official duties on her need n to overdo. At those times, the telephone may get a workout o: her socializing may be confined to the casual dropping - in o someone in "Mamie's circle after a shopping trip.

Here are some of the women who are the first Lady's closest friends:

Mrs. Ruth Butcher — former wife of the President's wartime naval aide. . . has known the First Lady for almost 30 years. . .is described by some as still her closest friend.

Mrs. Harold B. Titus — wife of a little-known Budget Bureau official . . . met Mrs. Eisenhower years ago through mutual friends and the friendship has deepened. . . one of the few in the circle whose husband is not also a close friend of the President's.

Baroness Silvercruys — Wife of the Belgian ambassador and the widow of the late Sen. Brien McMahon. . .Originally met the First Lady when Eisenhower was chief of staff at Ft. Myer here and the two women were members of Mrs. Truman's Spanish class.

Mrs. Everett Hughes — Wife of a retired Army general. . .The Hughes became acquainted with the Eisenhowers years ago and friendship blossomed when they kept meeting at one Army post after another.

Mrs. George E. Allen—Though seldom in the limelight, her wit matches and sometimes tops that of her well-known husband, the friend of presidents. . .Mrs. Allen knew Mrs. Eisenhower before her husband met then-Gen. Eisenhower in London in 1942. . .The Allens are now Gettysburg, Pa., farm neighbors of the Eisenhowers.

No Change in Internal Security

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee said Friday it has not agreed —nor been asked—to let the State Department censor testimony about foreign officials since the suicide of a Canadian diplomat it accused of Communism.

t Robert Morris, subcommitt counsel, told reporters "there is no change in subcommittee policy or procedure" as a result of the furor over the suicide of E. Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt.

He added "There has been no request from the State Department asking us to clear anything as a result" of Norman's death and Canada's protest against the subcommittee's publication of charges against him.

Neither Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) nor the subcommittee as a whole had any immediate reply to the latest State Department statement on the case. The department denied Thursday it approved release of derogatory testimony about Norman, or gave the subcommittee security information about him.

Air Safety—

Experts Claiming Air Passengers Just as Safe Riding Frontwards

(Last in a series)

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON (UP) — The builders of America's new jet transports have decided that passengers are just as safe riding frontwards as backwards.

British experts have been insisting for years that aft-facing airline seats are safer in low-speed crashes. The theory is that in the sudden deceleration, a passenger in a rearward seat is pressed against the cushioned back instead of being thrown forward.

The U.S. Military Air Transport Service liked the idea and equipped all of its four-engined transports with aft-facing seats.

But American aircraft manufacturers, who have received orders for more than 200 new jet airliners, said not a single order specifies seats that face to the rear. They added that American scientists do not agree that such seating arrangements are any safer.

Oppose Reverse Seating

"We figured that because of all the publicity about backward seats, some airlines would at least consider putting them in their new jets," said a Douglas Aircraft Co. official. "But they didn't."

A Boeing engineer who has worked on that company's 707 jet transport said Boeing "went to every aviation research outfit that had done work on the subject and found unanimous opposition to the idea."

The research organizations, he said, reported that in many accidents occurring at relatively low speeds, aft-facing seats actually were more dangerous than conventional seats. This was true in so-called "ground-loops" or cartwheeling, when violent deceleration threw passengers sideways instead of forward.

Tests also showed that to withstand the same amount of deceleration force as a front-facing seat, a backward seat has to be three times stronger. This adds weight to the plane, and weight is an airplane's greatest enemy.

Weight A Problem

If rearward seats are out as a safety device, how about parachutes for passengers?

Aviation industry spokesmen list these arguments against providing parachutes:

—The majority of accidents occur while landing or taking off, at altitudes too low for use of parachutes, or happen with such suddenness that there would be no time to jump.

—Equipping every passenger with a parachute would add enormous weight to a plane.

—Unless a plane were disintegrating in the air or being consumed by fire at a high altitude, it would be far safer for a passenger to take his chances on riding a crippled plane to earth. Even expert chutists frequently are injured.

—Jumping out of a plane at 30,000-40,000 feet (the altitude at which jet airliners will operate) would require oxygen masks for every passenger, adding further to a plane's weight.

Aviation scientists see more promise in other air safety research projects.

Researchers Busy

The Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center at Cornell University has 213 separate safety projects in progress. They deal with such subjects as airport lighting, ditching techniques, metal fatigue, turbulence, runway de-icing, stall warning devices, altimeter accuracy, automatic throttle control for approaches, cockpit visibility, anti-skid brakes, snow and ice removal chemicals for parked planes, and even an experiment involving utilization of a jet engine's blast as a windshield wiper in heavy rain.

Important safety progress has been made by such research in the past. Such developments as improved wing de-icers, fire extinguishing devices built into the engines, airborne radar to avoid bad weather and various malfunction warning devices that tip off pilots to unsuspected troubles. All have contributed to making air travel safer.

"Every day," said an airline executive, "modern planes meet and conquer with comparative ease situations that a few years ago might have resulted in an accident."

The missionaries from the "Yearbook of Prayer were remembered by Mrs. William Igoe.

A letter was read from Edna Kaly from Syria Lebanon Mission by Mrs. Willson. It told of the sanitarium in that country, where Miss Kaly is a missionary. Announcement was made from Mrs. Margaret Piersol, Redstone Presbyterial president, about the Spring Presbyterial meeting.

Mrs. Gerald Stanley was the topic leader. Her subject was "Christ's Way Every Day — In Every Church" stressing the purposes of the church and duties of the congregation, which consist of witnessing and giving of time, money, prayer and thoughts.

Literary Club in Study of Churches

The members of the Mimirian Literary Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Harold Toner, Broad Ave., Tuesday evening. Arrangements of yellow tulips decorated the home and were also used in the centerpiece for the table, where dessert refreshments were served.

After luncheon the program was presented by Mrs. E. C. Phillips, who discussed "Pittsburgh Churches" in keeping with the study theme for the year, "The Growth of Pittsburgh".

There was a brief business session of books.

Lynnwood Ladies Aid Society in Tuesday Meeting

The Ladies Aid Society of the Lynnwood Lutheran Church met on Tuesday evening in the church. The session was advanced from Wednesday due to the Lenten service.

The group singing of "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" opened the meeting and Mrs. John Greuser was the accompanist.

Mrs. James Salay and Mrs. Susan Salay discussed, "Altar Flowers".

Ferry Boat Is Aground in Japan; 24 Known Dead

TOKYO (UP)— A ferry boat carrying three times its normal capacity of 77 persons ran aground and capsized today in Japan's scenic inland sea. First reports said 24 persons were dead and 80 others missing.

Cause of the accident was not immediately known but an unconfirmed report said a 17-year-old boy playfully took the rudder and grounded the vessel. It turned over almost at once.

It was the second major disaster in the Inland Sea in two years. On May 11, 1955, 158 persons were drowned and another 10 persons were listed as missing when a government-owned ferry sank after a collision.

School Board Budget Is Presented; Tax Rate Same

The proposed budget for the 1957-58 school term submitted to the Belle Vernon Board of Education at the Wednesday evening meeting in the Vernon Junior High School amounted to $103,960.18. It will be approved after being posted for inspection and advertised.

Millage set was 35 mills real estate tax and a $5 per capita. This is the same tax rate that has been in effect for the past 12 years without any increase.

Vice President Joseph Hoffman conducted the session, which was attended by all directors and Vernon Principal Laura Free.

A request was received from the Bellmarette Band Boosters for the use of the Vernon Junior High School gymnasium for the annual band banquet on May 4. This was approved.

A letter of thanks was received from the Tuesday Evening Civic Club for the use of the school for a meeting in March.

Secretary J. E. Kuhn informed the board that the annual contribution of $200 has been forwarded to the Belle Vernon Public Library. He also reported that in cooperation with North Belle Vernon Board Secretary Clifford Breakwell, he was arranging a meeting with the Belle Vernon Community Foundation to discuss a playground for North Belle Vernon.

It was also reported that an extra copy of the 1957 tax duplicate has been received. Another report was on the approval of the Joint Board of the opening of the Belle Vernon Playground each evening until 9 o'clock.

Joseph Hoffman, Sr., gave the treasurer's report and Steven Smith, tax collector, submitted his report.

Miss Free announced that there will be a meeting at Vernon Junior High School, Monday evening, May 22, on Social Security. She also reported on the replacement program stating that a new ironer was installed in the home economist room and the washer and dryer were next in line for replacement.

Russian Circus Banned from Town

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UP)— A Russian circus which has been making a goodwill tour of Indonesia was banned today from Jogjakarta in the interests of "law and order."

The ban, imposed by Lt. Col Seloali, commander of the 13th Regiment, brought an immediate protest from the sponsoring Indonesian committee which said it would hurt friendly relations between the two countries.

The colonel said the circus was forbidden in the revolutionary capital "not on political grounds but exclusively to maintain peace and order."

The circus arrived in February. Since then it has been embroiled in a student riot, condemned by Moslems because the "Plastic Lady," its contortionist, was not sufficiently clothed, and was stranded in Palembang during an abortive military counter-revolution.

Elsa Maxwell With Monroe Assist, Is Hit

NEW YORK (UP)—Feudin' Elsa Maxwell stole the Duchess of Windsor's thunder Thursday night with a ballroom bombshell—Marilyn Monroe.

The duchess should have had the evening made. She was honorary chairman of the season's flossiest charity shindig — the "April in Paris" Ball. She and the duke were guests of honor at a table carefully positioned for the spotlight and all eyes.

The light went off it about half way through dinner Miss Monroe, with her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, slunk in fashionably late in a little ol' black sequin gown and sat down among the ambassadors at Miss Maxwell's table.

'MISTAKE' LIFE TERM ENDS — Santos Rodriguez, 28, freed from a life sentence, bids goodby to prison chaplain Father Leo Flynn as he leaves Norfolk, Mass., penitentiary. "I am very thankful to God. This is a very happy day," said Rodriguez, who was convicted in 1954 in the slaying of Mrs. Mildred Hosmer in Springfield, Mass. Last January an ex-convict, Lucien Peets, 34, admitted the Mosmer slaying, and pardon machinery for Rodriguez was set in motion. He insisted he didn't know what he was signing when he signed a confession to police after the crime.

Budding Actor Attacks Night Life

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — While Ginger Rogers is away, Jacques Bergerac is not at play, he says, because "night life can ruin an actor."

Handsome Jacques is remaining hard at work building his budding career as an actor since he and the blonde film star admitted all was not well in their love nest. Ginger began traveling after their confession of troubles, but in her absence the young French actor says he's been no social lion.

"I never have fallen into that Hollywood type of life. I don't like big parties. They are very bad for actors," he said.

Back To Nature

"This theory spells doom for half the ambitious actors in town, as there's an average of two big soirees a day here, complete with guests of honor, hot and cold hors d'ouevres and actors making "career contacts." But Bergerac thinks "to scatter and waste yourself at social activities is terrible."

"The most important thing for an actor is conservation," he said. "An actor must save himself for his work. An actor is only as good as his ability to concentrate and you waste valuable energy on parties."

Bergerac builds up his Tarzan-like figure and store of healthy energy that he says actors need by playing tennis once a day on the courts behind his and Ginger's home. He sleeps outdoors.

"And often I go into the woods with a couple of man friends in old slacks and get back to nature," the French actor continued. "I also have a friend with a boat and often I will go on that for three days by myself. That's getting back into the roots of nature."

Finishes First Movie

His marriage, Jacques says reluctantly, "Is status quo — I hope things will work out, but that is my private life and of no interest to people."

His trips alone into the wilds is part of his philosophy that though married a man must retain his individuality and independent life. That also goes for his career. During their now - disintegrating marraige, he has a rule about not acting with his famous wife. Jacques has kept busy in TV films, and recently finished his first top movie role in an MGM musical, "Les Girls." He also is working on a plan to bring exciting jai alai games to Hollywood, a gambling sport in which Jacques was a top player in Spain.

With the Kessamin reducing plan the only thing you can lose is weight!

Mrs. Moody to Head Scout Workers Here

Mrs. George Moody was re-elected chairman for the Neighborhood Committee of Scout workers at a meeting Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Moody is the first president of the organization which was formerly a part of Triad, until the present Scouting program in Fayette City became large enough to become a separate unit.

Vice chairman for the 1957-58 term will be Mrs. Ralph Gill. Mrs. James Moody will be secretary and Mrs. Wesley Hines, treasurer.

The meeting was held in the Scout rooms of the Legion home. Mrs. Moody presided and weekend camp program was discussed.

Mrs. Clifford Carlson, Jr., camp chairman, said permission slips were in the hands of the Scout leaders and would be distributed soon.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Carlson, the former Mary Ann Puskas, and a bride of one month, was surprised with a party in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. William Auther, of Independence, Mo., are visiting at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Oliver Hough, of Fayette City - Perryopolis Road. Mrs. Hough, a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, expects to undergo an operation next week.

Methodist Men Plan 'Clean-up'

All members of the executive board of the Fayette City Methodist Men, were present when the annual "clean-up day" was planned for tomorrow.

William Muirhead, project chairman, will be in charge.

Chester Myers, group president, presided at the meeting. The group voted to make a contribution to the annual Easter offering. The Rev. Harry W. Beveridge, church pastor, Read Brightwell and Clarence Young were named to the nominating committee. Election will be held April 23.

Attending were Myers, Dalton Brandt, Frank Parry, Mr. Beveridge, Read Brightwell, Edwin Hindmarsh, Clarence Young, Wooda Brightwell and Muirhead.

Cuisine Has An International Flavor Here

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — A boarding house on the University of Tennessee campus probably has more foreign chefs dishing out meals of an international "flavor" than the swankiest New York restaurant.

Each Sunday, diners find a different menu varying from the pieza de buey catalan of South America to a fried mixture of cabbage and eggs from India.

The chefs, representing about 10 foreign countries, are students at the school studying under the exchange system. The student chefs take turns serving dishes native to Iran, India, Pakistan, Honduras, Jordan, Colombia, Bolivia, Spain, France and China.

The custom originated iwth a graduate student from Mandalay who came up with such tasty dishesof beef curry, chicken curry and fried green beans that students practically demanded that the practice continue.

Another Banner Year Forecast By Steel Industry Economists

By J. ROBERT SHUBERT

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Steel industry economists foresee another banner year for the nation's mills, perhaps a record-breaker, although current production has eased from the capacity — taxing rates which marked the end of 1956.

"We expect the year to be a record one for steel and for our economy as a whole," predicted Bay E. Estes, U. S. Steel Corp. director of staff administration and one of the top market experts of the industry.

"However, before the year is over, we do anticipate a temporary slowing down of the growth rate of the economy, and an actual decline in certain segments of it, including steel production."

Will Match 1955

He predicted output of steel this year will total at least 117 million tons, matching the record output of 1955. Production last year was about 115 million tons, although the year was marked by a five-week strike.

A downward trend in overall steel demand started showing on order books last December. By late February the general operating rate of the nation's mills began a slow slide which still persists. Operations at the end of March had fallen to 92.5 per cent of capacity. Operations last week were scheduled at 91.6 per cent.

Raw steel production for the first three months of 1957 totaled about 1,700,000 tons, just under the output in the same period of last year. The operating rate for the quarter was close to 95 per cent of the industry's expanded capacity.

Auto Industry Disappoints

Biggest disappointment of the period was the failure of the automotive industry, steel's number one customer, to snap out of its doldrums.

Combined with a falloff in orders from appliance and equipment manufacturers, the weak motor industry market gave the sheet and strip steel business a definitely anemic look.

However, the market for heavy steel products—particularly structurals, plates and oil country goods—remained good.

Companies whose finishing facilities are tied to the sheet market bore the brunt of the fall off in business. Several companies were forced to shut down open hearth furnaces. One Western Pennsylvania producer's operations dropped to 50 per cent of its steel making capacity.

Otis Brubaker, research director of the United Steelworkers Union, reported that unemployment resulting from the reduced operating rate was "realitively small and very spotty."

Layoffs were light because the bulk of the work force in steel is in the finishing departments where slack is taken up by shortening hours worked per week.

The USW economist said he expected the slowing down in steel operations will continue "for the next few months," but he agreed with the company economists that "the outlook for the year still is good."

Woman Must Return $1,096, Court Declares

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The state Superior Court Thursday ordered a Luzerne County woman, twice widowed by coal mine accidents, to return $1,096.86 received in death benefits for her first husband.

The decision upheld a ruling by Luzerne Common Pleas Court holding that the widow, Mrs. Catherine Tomchick, obtained the money from the Glen Alden Corp. fraudulently by concealing her second marriage. She had appealed contending the case should have been heard by the Workmen's Compensation Board rather than the civil court.

Mrs. Tomachick's first husband was killed at the Glen Alden Woodward Collieries April 3, 1943 and she was awarded benefits of $11 a week for 300 weeks with the amount to be reduced by a third if she remarried.

Glen Alden said they found out the widow had been married to Andrew Tomchick since Feb. 27, 1946, when she made a claim for his death July 25, 1955.

Union Claims It Can Clean Out 'Festering Spots'

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The chairman of the AFL-CIO committee on ethical practices says the group will not be stampeded into a "lynching party" in connection with recent investigations of alleged union corruption.

A. J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists, said the committee is confident it can clean out the "festering spots" in the labor movement in an orderly manner.

"The overwhelming number of leaders in the American labor movement are an honest, decent set of men with a keen sense of devotion and integrity," he told the graduate school of industrial administration at Carnegie Institute of Technology Wednesday.

In the process of eliminating corruption, Hayes said, the AFL-CIO "doesn't intend to ape the Communists by trampling over human rights."

Made Mistake on Her Tax Refund

WEST MIFFLIN, Pa. (UP) — Mrs. Charles Morgan, who figured the government owed her a $78 refund on her income tax, received a check for $749 instead.

"It would have been nice to keep, but . . . " Mrs. Morgan said Thursday after she returned the overpayment to embarrassed officials of the Pittsburgh district internal revenue office.

Mrs. Morgan's only regret was that it will take about six to eight weeks longer to get the corrected refund.

Chlorine Gas Danger Is Passed

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa. (UP)—Authorities said today the danger from chlorine gas fumes which leaked from a railroad tank car had passed and there was no need for any decontamination measures.

All schools and industrial plants which had closed because of the gas danger reopened today.

Police and medical authorities said a brisk wind and clear weather eliminated all further danger from the fumes which leaked Thursday from a tank car on a siding at the Bisen Chemical Company in the industrial suburb of Frisco.

Twelve persons admitted to Ellwood City Hospital were reported in good condition. Some were expected to be released today. More than 50 others were treated at the hospital and scores at doctors' offices.

Medical authorities said effects of the gas, which can induce pneumonia, may not be felt for a day or two after exposure. But they did not believe anyone received enough gas to be affected seriously.

Two men were hospitalized Thursday night, several hours after they were exposed to the noxious gas. One was Dr. J. C. Painter, who had helped treat scores of persons exposed to the fumes.

Ellwood City police said the tank car contained 30,000 gallons of liquid chlorine, but they could not determine how much had evaporated. They said the car had no gauge.

A faulty valve atop the car was believed the cause of the leak.

The Hooker Chemical Company, Niagara Falls, N.Y., which manufactured and shipped the chlorine, sent a team of "trouble shooters" here Thursday night to conduct an investigation.

An alarm was sounded after a couple, staggering from the fumes, stumbled into the Ellwood City police headquarters Thursday. Firemen, police and civil defense workers mobilized immediately and evacuated about 200 families in Frisco and the southeastern part of Ellwood City, about 30 miles northwest of Pittsburgh. All returned to their homes a few hours later.

Leader Wants Revamping of Turnpike Board

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has urged complete revamping of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to put it under "competent non-political" management.

Leader called on the state Legislature to adopt legislation aimed at:

—Assuring the system of "efficient and economical" management during the remainder of its life as a toll road.

—Making direction of the system non-political—"just as free as possible of political harassment."

—Continuation of the administration-installed program of competitive bidding for purchases and construction contracts.

—Freeing the turnpike of tolls at the earliest possible date.

Leader told a meeting of public officials and civic leaders Wednesday that the administration-sponsored legislation, if adopted, would "slam the door hard" on any repetition of the "gigantic scandals" disclosed after Leader took office. He said his administration has taken steps to correct some of the defects in the turnpike system. But he added:

"What this administration has done and is seeking to do can be undone by another administration."

MIAMI (UP) — Leo Norton Boyd Voss, 78-year-old recluse, was sentenced to a month in city jail Thursday because boat enthusiasts complained about the way he used a fishnet on his island retreat. Judge M. M. Goldman said the fishnet, which Voss wore draped haphazardly around his waist, was inadequate clothing.

Veteran State Democrat Says GOP Can't Cut Leader's 'Honest' Budget

By JOE KIRKBRIDE

HARRISBURG (UP) — A veteran Democratic legislative leader warned today the Republican-controlled General Assembly cannot trim 100 million dollars from the administration budget without "starving" essential programs and services.

House Minority Leader Albert W. Readinger said Gov. George M. Leader's $1,604,000,000 budget was "an honest" budget and not padded out with misrepresentations.

"The Republicans will find they cannot lob a 100 million dollars off a budget that was tightly drawn in the first place," he said in an interview. "They will have two alternatives under their promise of no new taxes."

Readinger, who was majority leader in the last session, said the GOP could trip the budget and seriously cut back state programs and services or stretch the estimated yield from the sales tax out of reason.

The GOP drafted a "tax package" which they said would bring in $1,500,000,000 together with existing taxes to operate the state during the 1957-59 fiscal period.

Readinger also scored the Republicans' plan to adjourn the Assembly by May 31 as moving too swiftly to provide needed legislation.

He pointed out the Legislature would have only six weeks working time after the Easter recess, and much of the remainder of the session would be taken up with passage of appropriation bills, leaving little time for administration programs.

Bills in Committee

Leader has asked for numerous legislative acts ranging from revision of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to enactment of compulsory automobile liability insurance. However, most administration bills are locked in Republican-dominated committees.

Turning to the Republican-sponsored 3 per cent sales tax, Readinger said the governor "did the right thing" in allowing it to become law without his signature.

"The governor had no alternative. He did not want the amendments giving exemptions to business but a veto would have thrown the state's revenue program into turmoil," he said.

The 58-year-old Reading attorney, in a reflective mood braced with 21 years in the House, also made these comments:

—Republican "tax concessions" to business will come back to "haunt" them in the 1958 statewide elections.

—Gov. Leader will use the GOP sales tax as a "useful campaign issue" if he runs for the U. S. Senate.

—The Democratic party in Pennsylvania will never again drop to the low ebb of previous years years when the Commonwealth was known as a "Republican state."

—The GOP plans to use legislative investigations in an effort to "embarrass" the administration in hopes of furthering their own political ambitions.

Readinger made one further prediction, a November victory for a 10-year term on the Berks County Court bench.

"I expect to win the primary in May and take the election," he said.

Readinger's election would force him to resign from the House where he served since 1936 but would not necessarily end his political career.

"I have been approached on running for governor," he said. "I haven't said no and I'm not an active candidate, but if the right opportunity came long I'd try it."

Postwar Policy 'Dismal Failure'

PITTSBURGH (UP)—America's postwar policy in Europe "has been a dismal failure and stands in urgent need of revision," James P. Warburg said today.

Warburg, a writer on international affairs, spoke on "our second chance in Europe" at the seventh annual World Affairs Conference of the Foreign Policy Association.

In loving memory of our dear brother-in-law, John W. Gaydos, who passed away four years ago today, April 12, 1953.
His heart so kind, so loving, so true,
Loved and respected by all whom he knew,
To an active life came a sudden end,
He died as he lived — everyone's friend.
A bitter grief, a shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by Fulgenzio Family

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John Gaydos, who passed away four years ago today, April 12, 1953.
Four sad and lonely years have passed
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
Will always with us dwell
We did not know the pain you had
Or hear your final sigh.
We only know you passed away
Without a last goodbye.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill
Sadly and deeply missed by his Wife and Son, William John Gaydos

Segregation Story—

New York Bookseller Is Blamed by Southerners For Most of Troubles

(This is the third of four dispatches on segregation.)

By AL KUETTNER

ATLANTA (UP) — One of the bitterest pills of all for the South to swallow in its painful struggle with the race problem is the reputation of a and of violence.

There is no denying that there has been disorder—Negro homes dynamited and shot at, churches blasted to splinters, beatings, riots and threatened mob rule.

The fact is, however, that this sort of thing leaves most white southerners horrified.

Law-abiding southerners are ready to hang responsibility for much of the troubles on outsiders and particularly on a 27-year-old New York bookseller named John

"Outside Agitator"

Kasper is getting the blame for exploiting a family fight where tempers were already short and nerves ragged. He is being called demagogue by those who hate racial integration as deeply as he professes to abhor it. But mainly he has the label of an "outside agitator"—and right now that breed is mighty unpopular in Dixie.

"If John Kasper had never come here, we wouldn't have Negroes in our schools, "Citizens' Council leader W. H. Till said bitterly at Clinton, Tenn.

Kasper was a strange one from the day he set foot in Clinton last fall. School officials there were going quietly, although with distaste, into implementing the federal court orders to integrate the high school.

Within a few days Kasper, the unknown, and a Confederate from Alabama, Asa (Ace) Carter, had tongue-lashed fire into the people. It took the National Guard to restore order.

"Who is this Kasper?" the people began to inquire. Before they could find out, Kasper and 17 Clintonites who had never been in serious trouble before were under arrest on charges ranging from violence to interference with federal court mandates. That was more than the local people had bargained for.

Blame Reaches Elsewhere

Kasper began to lose ground in Clinton after that—fast. He envisioned establishing lavish state headquarters in Clinton and, as a starter, leased a building a mile from town.

One night recently someone—possibly one of his old pals—slipped a charge of dynamite into the building and reduced it to a shell.

Kasper and Carter certainly can't be blamed for all the violence. Before their appearance there was the Autherine Lucy uprising on the University of Alabama campus and innumerable incidents in Tennessee, Florida and Georgia.

But the South definitely seems to have had enough of the Kasper type. He hit his low recently in Florida where a committee of the state Legislature summoned him and for the first time explored his background.

Under incessant prodding, Kasper admitted that in New York's Greenwich Village he had often associated with Negroes.

"Did you ever dance with a colored girl, Mr Kasper?" committee counsel Mark Hawkes asked.

There was a lengthy silence.

"Look at me, Mr. Kasper," Hawkes ordered.

"I may have, once or twice, yes sir," Kasper said finally.

"Did you or didn't you dance with a colored girl? I don't want any 'may' answer."

Kasper bowed his head, then muttered "yeah."

Shirley Temple to TV Debut Next Fall

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — One-time baby star Shirley Temple, away from show business for seven years, makes her "comeback" and TV debut next fall, but her main job, she says, still will be as "a happy wife and mother."

After turning down movie and TV offers since she "retired" in 1950, Shirley finally consented to be hostess and narrator for a series of color spectaculars based on famous fairy tales.

Aline Mosby

"This will be kind of a fun little addition to my life," explained grown-up Shirley, now Mrs. Charles Black, on the telephone from her home in Atheron, near San Francisco.

"I'm very happy here, — and how. I've been approached many times with TV and movie offers but they always required my being away from home longer than I liked. My family thought several weeks was too long for Mama to be gone.

"I accepted this offer because it doesn't require me to be gone long. My part of each show will be filmed in Hollywood in one day, and the specs will be done live in New York."

Shirley also may star in one of the NBC-TV spectaculars. The network will move the show to its Hollywood studios so family-minded Shirley won't have to fly to New York.

"I'll do that show on our vacation so my family can be with me," she said firmly. The pretty Mrs. Black, who'll be 29 April 23rd, is "so happy with my life" in suburban Atherton. Her husband is with the Stanford Research Institute and she lives as a typical commuter's wife. She is bringing up her three children—Susan, 9; Charles Jr., 5; Lori, 3—without benefit of household help

New Office for TV Magazine

RADNOR, Pa. (UP) — The cornerstone for a TV Guide office building was laid here Wednesday by Rober Annenberg, son of Walter H. Annenberg, president of Triangle Publications Inc.

A small metal box containing highlights of the four-year history of the television weekly magazine and a copy of Tuesday's Philadelphia Inquirer was placed in the cornerstone.

Others participating in the ceremonies included Joseph M. First, vice president and general counsel of Triangle Publications and James T. Quirk, TV Guide publisher.

The building is expected to be ready for occupancy by August.

Director for Planning Group

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)— The Central Westmoreland Regional Planning Commission announced Wednesday the appointment of Heinz Fenichel, of Toronto, Can., as its first director.

Fenichel, now zoning administrator for the planning board of Scarborough Township in Toronto, will assume his new post June 1 at an annual salary of $8,000.

He has held similar positions in both the United States and Canada.

Represented on the planning commission are the city of Greensburg, the boroughs of Southwest Greensburg and South Greensburg and Hempfield Township.

Your Health—

Be Sure Frozen Foods Are Thoroughly Cooked

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Make sure those frozen foods you heat before serving are thoroughly cooked.

Most manufacturers of precooked frozen foods insist upon the highest health standards in their plants. But the demand for such products has become so tremendous that sanitary facilities in some plants, in all probability, have been unable to keep pace.

Generally, these foods are well-cooked to begin with. But in preparing and packaging them, they sometimes are handled many times.

While a man may follow heating directions on the packages to the letter, the housewife — and I think you'll agree — usually uses her own judgment.

In many cases she will merely warm the food, probably sticking it with a fork until it "feels right."

Precooked frozen foods, vending machine lunches and takeout orders from restaurants can be a source of food poisoning.

Cooked foods are the source of the most common type of food poisoning. The germs which cause the poisoning can multiply to the point of danger in cooked foods in about three hours.

The answer to the problem, as far as you are concerned, is to keep the foods adequately refrigerated until used and then to cook them thoroughly.

If the label advises storing the package in the freezer compartment, do it. Don't just toss it into the refrigerator section and leave it there.

Even more important — cook the food adequately in your own home. Merely heating it may not be enough.

Question and Answer

E. A. H.: I perspire freely both summer and winter, despite the constant use of non-perspirants. Can you suggest something that I might do?

Answer: To overcome excessive perspiration, you should bathe daily. Applying a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride, every other day, to the affected parts of the body may be helpful.

AFTER COPPING A SPY PLEA — Confessed spies for Russia, Jack Soble and wife Myra are escorted from federal court in New York by U. S. Marshal Harry McCabe (right) after pleading guilty. They came to the U. S. in the early 1940s. Soble, 53, and his wife, 52, could get 10 years inprison.

New State Parks Planned

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has announced expansion of the Commonwealth's recreation area program with two new state parks in central and eastern Pennsylvania.

The governor said a 3,000 acre state park for residents of Harrisburg, York and neighboring communities will be built about halfway between Harrisburg and York south of Lewisberry. He said preliminary surveys have been underway.

At the same time, the governor announced the new 300-acre Hills Creek State Park, between Mansfield and Tioga, will soon be in operation.

The project includes access roads, parking areas, a bathing beach and at least two picnic groves. He said swimming, boating and fishing will be available at the park's 137-acre lake.

"Workers have already begun clearing timber for the access roads and the beach areas," the governor said. "Actual building and installation of facilities probably will be completed in time for the opening of this year's park season, officially designated as Memorial Day."

The governor said the Hills Creek park will be within 25 miles of Mansfield, Elkland, Canton, Wellsboro, Westfield, Mainesburg, Liberty, Morris, Troy and Rolston.

Britain-France Channel Discussed

LONDON (UP) — Minister of Transport Harold Watkinson told the House of Commons Wednesday the government again is considering the possibility of a channel tunnel linking Britain and France.

He said the big stumbling block continues to be the tremendous cost of such a project. He estimated the cost of building a tube that would carry both rail and road traffic at 280 million dollars.

Would Transfer Hospitals

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Welfare Department has received a recommendation for transfer of the state's 10 owned medical and surgical hospitals to community control.

The suggestion was made by a faculty committee of the University of Pennsylvania which made a study at the request of Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro on medical institutional care for Pennsylvania's needy.

The group said that during the early stages of transition the Commonwealth should be prepared to assist the local communities with special subsidies to help defray the costs of operation of the hospitals, located mostly in the coal regions.

"For the present time," the committee said, "free care should be furnished by these hospitals through the hospital assistance and hospital aid programs of the Department of Public Assistance. This arrangement promises some financial gain by permitting the Commonwealth to utilize federal matching funds. It also would provide a more justified standard for eligibility to these hospitals."

The report said the state should also abandon its state aid to private hospitals and replace it with a program of "purchasing medical care for the needy and the medically needy."

16 Workmen Saved By Sudden Rain

NORFOLK, England (UP)—Sixteen workmen were alive today because they came in out of the rain.

The men were working on a picnic beach when a sudden squall sent them scurrying for shelter behind some steel sheets. Two companions dashed toward a nearby bulldozer. As they reached it, a hidden World War II anti-tank mine exploded and killed them instantly.

'Forgotten Man' not Bitter for 34 Years

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Charles Fink has ended his role as a "forgotten man" but harbors no bitterness for 34 years he had "lost."

In 1923 Fink, then 19, pleaded guilty in Allegheny County Court to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Under the law he could have been sentenced to a year in prison.

But Judge Howard Douglas ordered a mental test and Fink was sent to Farview State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

In the years that floowed Fink worked quietly in the hospital laundry. The arresting officers, Judge Douglas, the prosecutor and the defense attorney all died during that period. Fink and the minor crime he was charged with had been forgotten.

"After a few years, I began to think that maybe I couldn't get out and decided to make the best of my life up there," Fink said.

Then last month Judge William Cercone studied Fink's record and ordered a sanity test. Indictment papers, yellowed with age since 1923, were dusted off and showed the original charge against Fink.

Judge Cercone ordered Fink freed after it was shown the patient was sane.

"Now that it is all over," Fink said, "I'm not mad at anyone."

Fink has been asked by his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baker to make his home with them in Saltsburg. The Bakers operate a small chicken farm.

Fink said he had no contact with the outside world until recent years when a television set was installed at the hospital. "Otherwise, my knowledge of the outside world was a complete blank," he said.

Economy League Official Blasts Tax Structure

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Pennsylvania must have a more favorable tax structure for industry in order to overcome the geographical handicap resulting from concentration of industry at two extremes of the state, an official of the Pennsylvania Economy League said yesterday.

Most of the state's industry is so close to neighboring states, Dr. David H. Kurtzman, the league's assistant director said, that it is possible for an industry to "enjoy all economic advantages of Pennsylvania without paying its high taxes."

He explained that an industry locating in the lower tax rate states of Ohio and New Jersey can be close enough to Pittsburgh and Philadelphia to benefit from the advantages they offer without paying for them.

Pennsylvania's competitive position, Kurtzman told a luncheon of the Economic Club of Pittsburgh, would be improved substantially if the Legislature permits the payment of the capital stock tax to take effect next Jan. 1.
